

August 31, 2006

Charles L. Chatmon,
California Writers Collective
P.O. Box 2503
Inglewood, CA 90305

Dear Charles L. Chatmon,:

It's a privilege to write this letter of appreciation for your excellent Writers Workshop on July 29, 2006 at the AC Bilbrew Library and Black Resource Center.

Although three other authors who were scheduled to participate on the panel were not able to attend on short notice, due to prior commitments, you did not hesitate to single-handedly present a very focused, relevant, and outstanding workshop that truly inspired all members of the audience of approximately 18 attendees.

We were very impressed with your presentation. As a knowledgeable writer, you were able to impart your wisdom and experience in such an articulate and enthusiastic manner, that everyone left the workshop highly motivated to pursue their writing interests. We also appreciated your wonderful and useful handouts.

Thank you so much for presenting such a successful workshop and providing such a valuable service to members of our local library community.

We look forward to working with you to present future workshops, and highly recommend your workshops to other libraries, institutions and organizations, to motivate and inspire future writers.

Yours truly,
Rose A. Mitchell

Rose A. Mitchell
Black Resource Center Librarian
150 E. El Segundo Blvd.
Los Angeles, CA 90061
(310) 538-0059