Shaun Caffrey:

When I was 4 years old my dad put me on skates for the first time, and I've loved hockey ever since. It's always been a great way for me and my dad to bond with each other, everything from the early morning practices to the long road trips are great memories I wouldn't have without hockey. When I was 17 and going into my senior year of high school, I got the opportunity to move to Bridgewater and play for the bandits. Being from Nashville, this was a great opportunity to play hockey at a higher level not available where I'm from. While everyone back home worried about me, I knew I would be fine as long as I had hockey. Junior hockey has been one of the best times of my life over the last 3 years. I've met tons of great guys that I'll always be friends with, had tons of awesome new experiences in such a huge hockey hub, and created countless memories that I will never forget. The Bandits organization has established a culture where everyone fits in and is working towards a common goal to win while striving to be better every day. I cannot thank the Camden Canterbury Hockey Fund enough for helping me continue to do what I love.
