THANK YOU

Thank you for subscribing to 4D-House Ltd. We are pleased to have your support.

Without you, the start to this company would not have been where it is now.

We have launched Scripted, hosted by Careen Latoya and the Bedroom Poet, Becksy Becks and have had fun doing it all. We have had the #IAmNot4Sale team as stall holders in October, followed by Moremi Books in November.

We do have much more in store for you all for the new year and can't wait to share it with you.

In the meantime, have a read of what two of our audience members had to say about Scripted in October and November and visit Becksy's website www.bedroompoet.com.

Enjoy tonight as you bring in the New Year with family and friends.

We would like to wish you all a prosperous New Year and remember, when time gets rough, take a second to breathe and recover before getting back into the swing of things.

Much thanks

SCRIPTED: POST TRAUMATIC SLAVE SYNDROME

Written by: Kaydee-Ann Charles

Black positive events are only some parties, right? Very, very wrong indeed and this has been proven by the 4D House Ltd series of events when poetry meets a book club, Scripted.

My friend and I had the privilege of attending and I truly say it was an awakening experience. There were some powerful performances by up and coming poets, Nate the Lyricist, Lola Oh and AMD Speaks, which based on the topic of post trauma, in conjunction with us delving into this book, Post Traumatic Slave Syndrome, by Dr Joy DeGruy.

Using this as a starting point and with the aid of the booklets provided, we explored the themes Black Wall Street, Self-Esteem, and Teaching Children to Aim High relating it back to our community with some very timely conversation.

The age range was so diverse, so hearing different points of views was thought provoking because our views are influenced by so many factors.

This event was truly unique and I left feeling elevated and empowered.

I would definitely recommend attending one of these events. It is both entertaining and mentally stimulating, addressing some topics in forum in such beautifully facilitated manner.

SCRIPTED: HELLO KING CLAIM YOUR THRONE

Written by: Aaron James

The Scripted, King Claim Your Throne event was one I won't forget. It had music, poetry and most importantly, discussions which allowed the audience members to engage in conversation and difference of opinion. I enjoyed the fact that the evening started with an icebreaker that involved every member of the audience sharing facts about themselves with the rest of the group. Although a big group, this definitely allowed us to laugh and feel more comfortable with each other straight away.

The title Hello King Claim Your Throne was an interesting one and something that fascinated me. I attended this event with my father and it allowed us to have a continued conversation after it was finished. The questions that were put to us allowed us to understand the importance of a father figure, how do women support our kings, and what role does the schooling system play in supporting our young kings. These for me were great topics and it was extremely impressive to see the thoughts, ideas and opinions even given.

A big topic for the night was around identity and this for me is something I would love the black community to tackle. This event allowed us to look at stereotypes that surround men.

This was an amazing event and one I would recommend to many of my friends. It is a show that had amazing talented people share their art through poetry and music and then a discussion which allowed us to connect, learn and share.

WHAT ELSE?

4D-House Ltd is not solely an events company. In 2019, we will be offering opportunities for poets to get visuals for their pieces, mentoring poets and beginning to work with clients on book publishing as we also have a publishing house, Exhale Publishing.

If you are interested in any of the services, please do send us an email and we will be happy to discuss these with you.
