2022 Course Catalog

Curriculum – 500 hours

Anatomy and Physiology I, System Anatomy – 70 hours

This course is a study of the structure and function of the human body relevant to multiple manual therapy practices. It's intention is to provide the anatomy and physiology knowledge needed for clinical decision-making in the practice of various manual therapies and for communication with other health care professionals. This course introduces this study and begins the system-by-system break-down of the human body.

Anatomy and Physiology II, Gross Anatomy – 35 hours

This course is the in-depth study of the musculoskeletal system's anatomy through palpation. In this hands-on course, students will learn how to locate muscles, bones, and connective tissues of the body, as well as the planes in which the body moves.

Pathology – 40 hours

This course will teach common pathologies which massage therapists will see among their clientele. Students will learn when massage is indicated, contraindicated, or precautionary.

Kinesiology – 30 hours

This course will focus on the movement of the human body, as students learn the action, origin, insertion and nerve innervations. Students will study how muscle movement is affected by massage techniques. (Prerequisite: A&P I and II)

Health and Hygiene – 25 hours

This course teaches the accepted sanitation procedures, as well as how to recognize contagious diseases (such as HIV) and means by which they spread. Students will also learn how to work with clients regarding health issues, in addition to nutrition, fitness and stress management for the massage therapist. This course also includes CPR training and universal precautions.

Modalities – 25 hours

This course will focus on specialized modalities including hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, heliotherapy, reflexology, and spa treatments. Massage modifications for special populations will also be covered in this course.

Massage Basics – 25 hours

This course provides a foundation for the theory and practice of therapeutic massage. Students will gain skills and knowledge in the history of massage, benefits of massage, self-care, research literacy, body mechanics, treatment planning, and massage for special populations.

Business (15 hours) / Ethics (10 hours) – 25 hours

This course will cover ethical standards and business practices that will help students succeed in the massage therapy profession. Students will also become familiar with the laws and regulations that govern massage therapists in the state of Arkansas.

Technique – 200 hours

Students will gain practical experience in techniques including Swedish massage, deep tissue, myofascial release, reflexology, neuromuscular therapy, sports massage, chair massage, and prenatal massage.

Clinicals – 25 hours

Clinicals allow the student to gain practical experience in providing massage for the public. This creates an opportunity to refine professional skills in preparation for the workplace. Students will learn how to customize treatments, complete intake evaluations, and document sessions to provide a quality massage experience. Students will also work events to gain practical experience in sports and chair massage.

Clinicals

During clinicals, students may be required to leave the campus and hours may vary from regular school hours. The director will notify the students in advance to ensure the students will be able to attend. These events may include, but are not limited to, sporting events, business locations, schools, etc.

School Breaks

NEA School of Massage will close for the following: Spring Break (follows the school system), Summer Break: Week of Independence Day, Fall Break (Week of Thanksgiving), Winter Break (The week of Christmas)

Attendance

Students will be required to make up all missed classes by scheduling a time with the director at a rate of $10.00 per hour. Any student who misses more than 3 days in a semester will be placed on academic probation unless the director excuses the absences for uncontrollable reasons.

Inclement Weather

NEA School of Massage will close at the discretion of the owner for inclement weather. Students will be notified via text message or email, and it will be placed on the school's website.
