2 Fast, 2 Hungry: Corvette Crashes Into A Burger King

The driver of a bright red Chevrolet C5 Corvette was likely left more than a little red-faced after plowing the potent American sports car into a Burger King in Virginia—all in what we can only assume was a high-stakes pursuit of a Whopper.

The crash occurred in the afternoon of October 14th at a Burger King in Suffolk. It's unclear if the driver was attempting to park at the restaurant and accidentally hit the throttle, instead of the brakes, or if they may have been trying to go into the drive-thru but missed it.

Images that were shared to Facebook by the City of Suffolk Department of Fire & Rescue show the 'Vette was driven across the sidewalk and through a small garden area before slamming into a wall of the Burger King. The force of the impact looks to have broken part of the building's wooden frame and caused part of the wall to collapse.
