About us

What differentiates Dare to Care for the Homeless?

We do not charge people experiences homelessness any fees for any type of information, food or clothing. Services are given free of charge to those who qualify. We do not use our resources for religious or political gain.

We are currently seeking volunteers that would like to assist in the distribution of food and clothing and hygiene products. We are also seeking people to help us raise awareness about the social problem of homelessness. We are looking for individual, professional and pro-bono volunteers.

“To live fully, we must learn to use things and love people, and not love things and use people.” Mathew Kelly

The excuse of I am too busy is a convenient way for people to express their lack of desire in helping their neighbors in need. Radical individualism in conjunction with materialism has made it a custom for us to ignore the homeless and waste our time on things that are less important. It is time that we realized that every minute of free time we waste on entertainment and totally ignoring the great need of others is careless disregard.

“There is much suffering in the world - physical, material, mental. The suffering of some can be blamed on the greed of others. The material and physical suffering is suffering from hunger, from homelessness, from all kinds of diseases. But the greatest suffering is being lonely, feeling unloved, having no one. I have come more and more to realize that it is being unwanted that is the worst disease that any human being can ever experience.”

- Mother Theresa
