

Creative

expression

yields

growth

P.O. Box 20
Yorkville, CA
95494

AVArts

AVArts

Arts Education for All!

Anderson Valley Arts (AVArts) began in the late 1990s with a scholarship award program. Later, in response to the need for more arts education at the elementary school, AVArts also started supporting arts education programs in the schools with funds raised through special events and grants.

During the past three decades, AVArts has remained committed to increasing access to arts education and experiences for all Anderson Valley community members. Our focus is on sponsoring projects which reinforce community spirit and make the arts a more visible presence in our community and supporting rich learning environments which foster innovation, culture and engagement in our schools.

Photo credits:

Cover: Mosaic Art Project with local artist Martha Crawford in summer school and ASP classes.

Far right: Ceramic Arts in Medieval World History Project with local artist Jess Thompson and Julie Honegger's World History classes.

Back, top to bottom: AVArts scholarship recipient Gabriella Kephart in cover photo for EP project at UC Santa Cruz; After School Screen Printing Project with AVArts scholarship recipient Cozette Ellis; AVArts scholarship recipient Hannah Woolfenden as Dream Laurey in Oklahoma! at Cinnabar Theater in Petaluma; and AVArts scholarship recipient Cozette Ellis at Alchemy Art Center event in Washington.

AVArts sends out an annual newsletter update to donors and the community. To receive the newsletter, send your name and mailing address to AVArts P.O. Box 20, Yorkville, CA 95494.

For information about how to get involved as well as past and upcoming community arts events, please visit the AVArts website at av-arts.org.

AVArts is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization dedicated to supporting and promoting the arts in Anderson Valley and welcomes donations and involvement from the community.

Photo credit on left: AVArts Scholarship recipient Madalayne Mackenzie Zacapa-Lagunas in her studio at UC Berkeley.

Along with supporting arts in our schools, AVArts has two scholarship opportunities for Anderson Valley students:

- scholarships for students in 3rd-12th grade to attend special arts-related classes, workshops and events in the visual, performing and literary arts; and
- scholarships for talented high school seniors who are interested in pursuing the arts and arts education in college.

For more information about the scholarships and the arts in the schools grants, please visit the AVArts website at av-arts.org.

