

Our 17 ambassadors returned from the Global Rambler Exchange to Isle of Wight, in many cases, having enjoyed the opportunity to renew friendships and become acquainted with the world in which the friends that we got to know on the two Isle of Wight exchanges to Haliburton live. They also developed an appreciation for how serious their host club took their theme of rambling with daily walks ranging from 5 to 10 miles.

As you can see from the preceding picture, they did get to enjoy some spectacular scenery. They also observed that clay can be very slippery when wet and can lead to a rather dirty pair of boots at the end of the day. Evening events of note were a beach party at the Shanklin Rowing Club and the farewell dinner at the Windmill Inn. On the free day, many of our ambassadors were able to visit and appreciate the splendor of Queen Victoria's summer palace, Osborne House which still includes many of the original furnishings.
