

This is my document written on MS Word then turned into a PDF so that it's visible on the website's PDF viewer.

Drawbacks of this type of document: it probably won't scale correctly on people's mobile devices and the fonts on this document won't match the website's fonts.

One longish article is the most people would expect on one single web page. Any more would require the blog format.