

OPINION ESSAY GRANDMA

2ND SUPPORTING PARAGRAPH EXAMPLE

Another reason my grandmother is a true friend is I can tell her anything. This means I always have a safe person to talk to. Plus, I don't have to worry about her blabbing to other people, especially to my parents. If she was a tattletale then I would not ever tell her a secret. For example, once I was really mad at my sister and I couldn't talk to my parents about it because I didn't want them to punish her. I explained to my grandma that I told my sister a secret and then she tattled on me. I had said I hated my mom (which wasn't true of course) because she wouldn't let me go to a party. The only person I could vent to was my grandma. She wasn't shocked or angry with me. Instead she listened and sympathized. After we talked it out, I realized how much I loved my mom and I was sad that I had made her feel bad. So, even though my grandma didn't make me, later I apologized to my mom. It turned out my sister hadn't tattled. Shocking! And everything turned out fine. My mom said that everyone makes mistakes and it doesn't mean we don't love each other. Everyone needs someone safe to talk to...and that person is my grandma.
