

THE LISTENING POST

November 3, 2025

eller_ruth@cusdk8.org

Mrs. Eller

Week at a Glance

Mon.

Math Facts

Reading: Study for Island of Blue Dolphins test
GET READING LOG SIGNED

Tue.

Math Facts

Reading: Study for Island of Blue Dolphins test

Wed.

Math Facts

Reading: Study for Island of Blue Dolphins test

Thur.

Math Facts

Reading: Study for Island of Blue Dolphins test

Fri.

Math Facts

Nothing else. Woo hoo! (No reading log to turn in.)

SCHOOL DISMISSED AT 11:50!!!

MATH FYI

I wanted to let you know the typical procedure for math homework. Students should ALWAYS have their math work in their Blue Folder each day. This is true whether they are finished with it or not. The PURPOSE of this routine is so that you can do a quick check every evening to see if they have finished it. But ALSO so you can do a quick check to see if your child seems to be understanding the concept we are working on. If they are struggling or maybe have a question about the assignment they need to understand, this gives you a chance to reinforce what we are learning in class. This is especially true when we are starting new concepts. Thanks for your amazing support!

WRITING FYI

Because we are studying for our very first reading test, we are pausing our writing. IF you haven't finished Event 3, this is the week to catch up!

Island of Blue Dolphins TEST on Friday

We have finished reading the book, and now it is time to get ready for the test! Please check out Test Support for the Island of the Blue Dolphins test on our website.

This week we will spend time together in class choosing the 7 main plot events (rising actions, climax, and the resolution). We will also focus on main characters, setting, main conflict and resolution. Also, we will prepare to write about a theme for the book and about how Karana changed throughout the book. Please check out the examples for both of these essays on the class website. Each night the students will be given a specific way to study for the test. They will bring the required evidence that they studied to school each day. Along with this evidence, all students must get a parent signature Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday night to verify that s/he studied for the test.

FYI: No Reading Log is going home to be signed.

Because of the test. . .

No Spelling Words

No Word Power or Word Hunt

No Reading Log

Math done at school only