

Third Reason Paragraph

Finally, my grandma was a good friend because she always helped me all the time. You know how friends can be sympathetic but that doesn't mean they can help you fix a problem? Well, my grandma often could fix the problem! Once I was upset because my Halloween costume was stained. She got some fabric and sewed a best I could wear on top, which hid the stain. Another time I got into big trouble because I couldn't understand fractions. I thought my mom was saying crazy stuff like 4 is smaller than 2. So then I called her a liar. Not surprisingly, I got a time out for that! While I was pouting, my grandma came and asked if she could help. Of course, I said yes! She drew pictures while she explained the fraction confusion and it finally made sense! After that I actually got a 94% on my fraction test. Wow! I seriously can't think of any problem she wouldn't help me solve.