

Regions Test

Help for “My Favorite Region” part

This is Mrs. Eller’s EXAMPLE for this section on the California Regions Test.

I chose a state, not a region. But, the way to do it is the same.

You might not write as much as Mrs. Eller, but you need 2 details that are facts for each of your 3 reasons. Then one personal comment about why it matters to you.

FYI: the facts are underlined. That is followed by the “It matters to me because....” part.

If I could choose, I would love to live in Hawaii.

First of all, there are a lot of volcanoes there. In fact, Hawaii is basically made up of a chain of volcanoes. Some famous ones are Mauna Loa and Kilauea. This matters to me because I love geology. I collect all kinds of rocks, including igneous rocks which come from volcanic lava. I’d love to visit every volcano in Hawaii.

Also, since Hawaii is a series of islands that means there are beaches everywhere. One amazing one is Punalu’u Beach. It is famous because it has black sand which is very unusual. It is also home to endangered Hawksbill turtles! This matters to me because who doesn’t like to play in the ocean? And, since I’m into geology, the unusual black sand at that beach is fascinating to me.

Finally, Hawaii has so much variety in the land. There are mountains everywhere on all the islands. And not only that, Hawaii is considered tropical. So it actually has lots of rain forests like Kalalau Valley. Which contrasts to the pine forests like the Makawao Forest Reserve. This matters to me because there is always something new to see and explore. And you’ll never get bored!

Clearly, I would enjoy living in Hawaii.
