

Meet Vicente Pineda

Hey, my name is Vicente Pineda, and I am a photographer based in Delaware.

Photography has been a long passion of mine, even when it did not always seem possible;
I was lucky enough to find a way to make it possible.

I always like to say photography found me, and this is the journey of how that came to be my reality, who I am, and how it eventually became my way of documenting emotion, atmosphere, and the connection between people and the world around them.

Where It All Started

A Long-Time Promise

This life did not always look like this. I come from a place where it was just a dream, something way too far for me to reach. I did not know how I was going to get there, and just like many dreamers who work hard, I knew I was somehow going to make it work. I'd like to say it was a calling.

Believing in My Vision

A New Beginning

Turning Passion
Into a Profession

There I was years later, holding a camera that was a result of my own hard work. At this point in time, I had moved, I had a bit of knowledge, and even when I was probably not ready, I believed I was called to do something with it.

This is when Vicente Productions came into what it still is today, my way to capture, tell, and narrate stories.

A Chance Worth Taking

Looking Back, Looking Forward

If you were to ask me, what kind of photographer am I? wedding, sports, or family photographer? I would say I am a storytelling photographer. Meaning I would be thrilled to do all of the above, I might not be the best, I might not be good, but when I have a client in front of my camera, I will always do my best to capture that moment that best I can, capturing a story worth telling.

I love nature, connection, and people's precious moments. I love feeling the air on my face while I work, so I always try to incorporate all of that together into what I do, photographing people's most precious moments in connection with something real, such as the beauty of the world.

I am Vicente Pineda, and I'm a photographer!
