

MIAMI, Florida – Raymond Giles, founder of Regal Luxury Travel with Raymond, will attend the 2026 LuxRally Travel Advisor Symposium at the Four Seasons Hotel Miami, joining fellow travel advisors and representatives from many of the world's leading luxury travel brands.

Hosted by LuxRally Travel, a Forbes Travel Guide-endorsed travel agency, the annual symposium brings together luxury hotels, resorts, cruise lines, destination management companies, and travel industry partners to discuss emerging travel trends, new experiences, and exclusive opportunities available to clients through preferred partnerships.

Throughout the event, Raymond will meet with dozens of luxury travel brands and collaborate with fellow LuxRally travel advisors from across the country. These conversations provide valuable insight into exceptional hotels and resorts, unique itineraries, emerging destinations, and travel experiences that many travelers may not discover on their own.

"The greatest benefit of attending events like this is the opportunity to learn directly from the people who create these extraordinary experiences," said Giles. "Every conversation helps me return home with fresh ideas, stronger industry relationships, and new ways to create exceptional travel experiences for my clients."

The symposium also provides an opportunity to strengthen existing supplier relationships and develop new preferred partnerships that enhance future travel through exclusive amenities, VIP recognition, and personalized service at many of the world's finest hotels, resorts, and cruise lines.

Continuing education and professional development are central to Raymond's commitment to his clients. By participating in industry events such as the LuxRally Travel Advisor Symposium, he remains current on luxury travel trends, destination developments, and the evolving expectations of today's travelers, ensuring every client benefits from informed recommendations and concierge-level service.