Mission and Vision

It's natural for a child to be active and to engage with other children in vigorous play and sports activities—but the activity options for limb-different children are inherently limited.

Camps and clinics designed to accommodate children with limb differences create an environment where these children have a chance to participate in a wide variety of activities with their peers—that is, if they have the ways and means to attend.

LIMBitless Possibilities' primary mission is to assist limb-different children, and their families, with the burdensome costs of attending camps and other programs that are geared toward children with limb differences. For children with lower-limb deficiencies, we also want to reduce or eliminate the financial barriers that prevent these children from acquiring running blades (an expensive prosthetic device that many health insurance plans do not cover).

With the financial contributions of generous donors, we have been able to cover the cost of travel, lodging and meals for limb-different children, from all over the country, to attend camps and clinics where mentors help these children to discover and develop their skills.

We've also sponsored over 20 running blades for children with lower-limb deficiencies. For these children, a running blade is an absolutely liberating device that allows them to compete in sports activities that require running, jumping and sport-specific maneuvers.

We are extremely grateful to all who have pledged their support and demonstrated their resolve to help us eliminate financial barriers that interfere with the dreams and aspirations of limb-different children.
