

Wallace's Words of Wisdom

Wallace wants to see if YOU know the facts behind BSL! Let's see how you do...

1. Is there really a pure breed of dog called "pit bull"?
2. Do any dogs in the world have locking jaws?
3. Are there any dogs who have genetics that determine aggression?
4. Is there any specific breed of dog pre-dispositioned to bite, unprovoked?
5. Does BSL enhance public safety?

Hint - there is only ONE correct answer to each of these questions...

Did you answer NO? If so, you are wise like Wallace!

1. There is actually only one true breed that includes the term "pit bull", and that is the American Pit Bull Terrier...
2. It is a scientifically proven fact that dogs do not have a "lock" mechanism in their jaws...
3. There is no gene that exists that pre-determines aggression levels in anything! In fact, there is nothing in the genetic sequences that influences the brains of any dog that makes them more aggressive or unpredictable than any other dog of any breed...
4. There is no breed of dog that is more prone to biting than any other dog. Environment is always the leading factor in dog bites...
5. BSL is an ethical failure in ensuring public safety is maintained...
