

ADMISSIONS

The Rosemont Method™ was created for children who would benefit from a small classroom environment and who may or may not require subject specific remediation. Candidates for Rosemont Academy do not have behavioral or emotional issues. Rosemont Academy's Admissions Department carefully evaluates each admissions candidate to determine which student will benefit from the method and which student will be better served at another academic institution. Rosemont will never discriminate on the basis of race, religion, or national origin.

Each admissions candidate is required to schedule a minimum of two visits for observation. The candidate will participate in a Rosemont's daily classroom activities while being evaluated for behavioral, social, and academic compatibility to our program. The two-day classroom evaluation precedes all other steps and determinations in the admissions process. If, based on the academic evaluation, classroom teacher's recommendation, and the Director's discretion, it is determined that the child is a candidate for our program, the Director will determine the candidate's classroom placement and the applicant's family will be notified as to whether their child has been accepted to Rosemont Academy or placed in the Wait Pool. No school is the perfect fit for every applicant, and if it is determined that the child is not a candidate for Rosemont's academic program, we will make every effort to refer the family to a more appropriate academic institution.
