

“FOOD GLORIOUS FOOD”

(As sung by OLIVER in the Broadway musical OLIVER)

“What next is the question?”

by Suzie Wilkinson

Editor, Food Page of Woodlake.Life

Hurricane Stew

By Suzie Wilkinson

Ingredients:

- 155 MPH Winds
- 1,000,000,000 Gallons Water
- 1,000,000,000 Tree Branches
- 1,000,000,000 Leaves
- 1,000,000,000 Twigs
- 500 Pounds Mud

Begin about two days before you wish to enjoy your hurricane.

Day One – The sun will shine, but it will be a bit windy. Sit tight.

Day Two – Rain will begin about mid-day. Begin to stir.

Hurricane Day

Part One – Incessant rain will start in the morning and increase throughout the day. The winds will pick up from gusty to continuous. You must stir rapidly.

Part Two – Don't be fooled. Things may have appeared to have calmed down. Rain is now a drizzle. Winds have lessened. This part can be compared to a bread rising....you wait. Its more calm in the eye of the storm. Stir at a consistent moderate speed.

And now to enjoy your HURRICANE – Fierce winds, strong gusts (here is the 155mph part). Add in cracking and falling tree branches, leaves and twigs pelting the house, thumps as flying debris attacks the house. You must stir rapidly and vigorously for hours and hours for it to be just right to be considered the best! Go for Cat 5!!

Congratulations!! Take a look around! Yep!! It's a mess! You did it!

Editor's Note: In the face of horrific circumstances we simply cannot lose our ability to laugh. 😊

