

Food Rescue Program

Did you know that in the United States, almost 100 billion pounds of food, which is perfectly suitable for human consumption, goes to waste each year?

What we do

At Community Storehouse, we are proud to operate our own food rescue program. We collaborate with local grocers, restaurants, convenience stores, and vendors who have excess perishable food. Instead of letting this surplus go to waste, we collect and distribute it to individuals and families in need right here in Martinsville and Henry County.

By rescuing and redistributing this food, we not only prevent unnecessary waste but also ensure that quality meals reach those facing food insecurity in our community.

You're covered!

The Bill Emerson Good Samaritan Donations Act is a federal law ensuring that donors are protected from any civil and criminal liability, as long as the product is donated in good faith. In addition, our distribution center is ServSafe compliant, ensuring that your donation will be handled safely.

We encourage businesses to donate food and grocery products worry-free.

Our impact

Food rescue programs play a crucial role in protecting our planet by reducing the volume of food waste sent to landfills, where it would produce harmful greenhouse gases like methane. By diverting edible food to those in need, we conserve the resources used to grow, transport, and process it—including water, energy, and land. Every pound of food rescued is a step toward a healthier, more sustainable environment.

Our Mission

We nourish our community with on-site groceries & home deliveries, enrich kids' lives with unique programs and stand firm in our commitment to seniors and disabled members of Martinsville & Henry County.

3 million meals strong, and counting...

How it works

Reach out to us to join the food rescue program. We'll discuss your needs and set up a collection plan that works for you.

We'll arrange a pickup schedule that suits your business—whether it's daily, weekly, or as needed—to collect your surplus food.

Our team ensures that your donated food goes directly to our client-choice grocery and home delivery programs, helping feed local families in need.
