Rod Cunningham was born to a 15-year-old mother, struggled with the death of his biological father and he watched his step-father emotionally and physically abuse his mother. He and his mother escaped the home in the middle of the night when he was just 7-years-old. This absence of a significant adult male influence had adverse effects on his emotional well being. Rod found redemption through his decision to join the Air Force. The Air Force represented a turning point for Rod, as he was provided with structure, discipline and an exceptional influence from men of honor, dignity and character. Rod eventually retired after 29 years of service at the rank of Chief Master Sergeant, the top 1% of the enlisted corps.

As a passionate advocate in the areas of drug prevention and misuse, Rod encourages youth to engage in positive decision-making behaviors by addressing the issues of trauma head on. In his presentations, Rod focuses on empowering young men, women, and adults by teaching them ‘The 5 Steps to Emotional Wellness’ based on his intense research and his personal journey. He also taught Opioid Use/Misuse Training throughout the state of Florida on behalf of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). He has worked successfully with community leaders, 5-county school districts, the Department of Justice, Department of Defense, Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI), Community Anti-Drug Coalitions of America (CADCA), Pasco Alliance for Substance Abuse Prevention, University of South Florida-Health Faith-Based Opioid Task Force, etc. to build effective programs that inspire emotional wellness and sustainable drug-free living by addressing the root causes of drug abuse, as well as teaching coping skills, and building self-esteem.
