Assembly District 73 Angela Stroud (D)	Q1: Support/Oppose Support Q1: Comments  In principle, I feel strongly that people should have autonomy over their own bodies. But I also understand that public health requires that we all do what we can to keep each other safe and healthy. So the current model of making vaccines a default expectation and allowing people to opt out of them for particular exemptions (religious, personal, medical, etc.) seems like a good balance to achieve both of these aims.	Q2: Support/Oppose No Answer Q2: Comments  I need to know more about what the current vaccination requirements are. I'm not up-to-date as my children are all older now.	Q3: Support/Oppose No Answer Q3: Comments  I would need to know what exactly is meant by expanding exemptions. My understanding is that current exemptions allow people to opt out of vaccine requirements, and I support allowing people to opt out.	Q4: Support/Oppose No Answer Q4: Comments  This too depends. I think there are compelling reasons that an employer might want to require someone to get a vaccine, but I also think that people have to maintain an ability to make a case for why they cannot / will not take one. In general, I think we have to balance personal freedom and public health, which is complex and contextual.
