NOTE FROM CHRIS

The Prez says:

The swap meet was a nice event for all. The t-shirt were selling and the baked goods were sold. We made a nice profit on the baked goods. We got lucky with the weather on Saturday.

We are still looking for a Vice president for the club. Anyone with a desire, please contact me, or express interest at the next meeting.

Rachel is doing better and attended the last meeting. Kudos to Ray for his excellent nursing skills.

We are planning our spring picnic for Sunday April 12th. At Fishermans landing Grant/Valkaria. Rain or shine. More on this at the meeting.

March 1st. Was the deadline set for membership renewals. Thank you for those who have renewed. We also had a few new members.

The "Dodge Pinky Thing"

By Penny Anderson

The "Dodge Pinky Thing" (or "Pink Thingy") is a notorious, brittle plastic component in the gear shifter mechanism of mid-2000s Chrysler, Dodge and Jeep vehicle (like Charger, Magnum and 300). It breaks causing the shifter to get stuck in "Park". Many owners replace it with a durable aluminum aftermarket version.

Key Details About the Pink Thingy:

- * Purpose: It is a pink plastic pawl or lever that allows the shifter to move out of the "Park" position.
- * Symptoms: You cannot shift out of Park and the shifter feels loose or broken.
- * Cause: The plastic becomes brittle over time, often failing due to high heat, especially after the car has been sitting in the sun.
- * Fix: While dealerships traditionally replaced the entire shifter assembly, owners frequently use a third-party, aluminum replacement part (often called a "pinky") for a permanent fix.

* Common Vehicles Affected: Mid-2000s Dodge Charger, Magnum, Chrysler 300C and Pacifica

NOTE: I ONLY became aware of this "PinkThingy" since our son changed his in their 2006 Magnum

We had the 25th anniversary Super Swap. It was a little chilly, We still had a great turn out. Here are some pictures.
