Phase 1 (Application): This payment is done at the time of selecting a particular service with JAG. Applicants may choose either Basic or a Comprehensive pack based on their requirement.

Phase 2 (Interview): This payment is done after the student gets selected for the interview round of any one of the Graduate Schools that he or she applied for with JAG's assistance on Essays.

Phase 3 (Final Selection): This payment is done only after a student gets selected for any one program after the interview round. This fee is waived in case the candidate does not get a scholarship of at least Rs 2,00,000/-

(Applicants must make the phase assigned payment within 5 working days from the date of getting confirmation from a Graduate School regarding their selection for the next phase)

Basic pack is convenient for non-top 100 (world) Graduate School applications. This is also good for candidates who already have a 700+ GMAT score and a strong profile, and just want last minute help in polishing their application for a higher ranked B-School. These essays will be written by the candidate based on pointers provided by JAG after a brief analysis of the candidate's resume, achievements, goal setting, career highlights and extracurricular activities. The first draft will then be fine-tuned. The final essay may need up to 5 revisions on the 1st draft.

Comprehensive packs are primarily for students looking to get into the Top-100 Global Schools, and these packs cover detailed review of resume, achievements, SWOT analysis, goal setting, career highlights, extracurricular activities and other parameters of the candidate. The SOP pointers are given to the candidate after this rigorous analysis and student works on his or her draft/write-up next. This 1st draft is then analysed and reanalysed and fine-tuned. It may take up to 10 revisions to make it the best version of the first draft, so time is essential to make it work. This is usually recommended for students who are applying to multiple top graduate Schools in India and abroad. Usually premier graduate Schools will ask a student to write their SOPs / essays on 2-5 topics. The suitability of profile of a candidate for a program is assessed by the admission committee after careful analysis of all these write-ups along with GMAT, CAT or some other test scores. Candidates will also be offered extensive support in drafting their CV.

Guide Pack: It is a Premium Comprehensive Pack, and includes insights on B-Schools application and individual profile building that could make one stand out among the rest. It also includes the detailed review of LORs and Scholarship essays, and review of Video essays that top colleges like Kellogg, IE, SMU and others require. This pack is an excellent choice for people who very keen on making it to the choice of their institute in the current academic year instead of losing time and money over another year. These insights and tips give one that additional edge in the application which may ultimately make the difference between a selection and a ding, and Scholarships. Candidates will also get comprehensive inputs on LORs and CV making. Applicants talking Guide pack will be eligible for a 100% waiver on the next applications to the same colleges they applied for (with the assistance of JAG) and did not get an interview call from. The full waiver is subject to the condition that the applicant got at least the average or median GMAT score for the program (average of the previous year) he or she applied into. The Guide Pack is highly recommended for candidates with a relatively low GMAT/GRE score, or from a weaker or over represented background, and for students aiming for the Top-50 Global programs.

Note: Students should keep all discussions and writings made for and during the process of making the application package strictly confidential so that their application is unique and not reproduced by someone else. Student must provide true information at all points which the graduate universities can verify as true. The essays and applications documents should be written and submitted to JAG via email only. JAG will review, edit or suggest edits, and give necessary inputs only to submissions made via email. Rates and terms may change with time. Please connect with JAG Educate for the latest terms and conditions.

Disclaimer: Neither JAG nor anyone at JAG guarantees or makes a claim that a candidate taking JAG’s admissions consulting service will get selected into the program of choice that the candidate applies for.
