

Basic Trip Protection:

- Your Delta Vacation package includes Basic Trip Protection. If you need to cancel your trip, you will receive a future travel credit.
- The future travel credit will be the amount you paid for the vacation package minus the cost of the Basic Trip Protection or fees imposed by the airlines, resorts, hotels, or other components. A credit in the form of a Delta Vacations travel certificate is equal to the required deposit amount minus any cancellation fees and nonrefundable components and any airline-issued credits applied to the airfare portion of the package. Suppose a traveler uses miles as a form of payment. In that case, the amount refunded will equal the value of the miles at the time of cancellation. It will be refunded in the form of a Delta Vacations travel certificate.
- The credit is valid for booking and travel by specific dates for vacation packages to destinations offered by Delta and Delta Vacations. Select resorts, such as Sandals/Beaches and other resort companies, may have additional fees.
