Justice Newby also elaborated that while judges serve a front and center role, the magistrates, clerks, and baliffs were the "real faces of justice for most folks" and they were unsung heroes. SORGHUM, cont from Pa 1 working hard in preparation for what will probably be a record number attendance at the festival this year. With the struggling economy and COVID many families are looking for fun, family-oriented activities that are available at little or no cost. Well, the Sorghum Festival fits all this criteria and it is FREE to the public.

The Old School at McDaniel Crossroads is located at 11233 Boykin Bridge Road, Roseboro, NC. The school is roughly 6 miles from Garland and Roseboro, NC and 12 miles outside of Clinton.

More than twenty years ago Annie and Johnny Matthews founded the festival to showcase the disappearing art of cooking sorghum syrup. For many decades sorghum syrup was a primary source of sweetener in rural parts of the South and Midwest, with many farming communities having a Sorghum Man who would process the sweet sorghum cane his neighbors grew into a tasty and useful sweetener that could be used as both a table syrup and as a sweetener in cooking and baking. The grounds of the Old School at McDaniel Crossroads, which the Matthews had recently acquired, were the perfect spot for hosting the Festival and so this fun, family friendly event was begun and is now anticipated event every Fall.

According to John, the festival usually has around 2000 visitors; people from as far away as California, Pennsylvania and New Orleans. "The festival just keeps on growing every year. The Sorghum Festival is a tradition that brings back the taste of sorghum which the older generation fondly remembers. However, if sorghum isn't your interest, there are events planned for the entire family."

In 2018, the festival was cancelled due to Hurricane Florence. In 2020, the event was cancelled due to COVID concerns.

The circa 1924 school will be open for viewing the exhibits inside and to shop at the Old School Vintage Marketplace. On the grounds you will find exhibitors, food vendors and other vendors selling a mix of vintage and handcrafted goods. A good number of years ago the family acquired a vintage country store and moved it onto the school grounds, make sure you visit on festival day to view the exhibits inside and to pick up a cold drink and a sorghum cookie or other sweet treat. Don't miss the Sorghum Booth adjacent to the Country Store to pick up a pint or two of the site made Old School Sorghum Syrup.

Also, on festival day you will find a great display of vintage and antique automobiles and farm equipment, entertainers on the outdoor stage. If you visit early in the day you will be able to see the Sorghum Men in action as they demonstrate the sorghum syrup cooking process, the batch cooked on festival day is usually ready by just after lunchtime. Follow your nose or look for the Sorghum Shed located between the Old School and the Country Store.

The festival is held every year on the third Saturday in October at the old McDaniels School at McDaniel Crossroads near Garland right off Old Mintz Highway. According to Mrs. Annie Matthews, the purpose of the event is to "Educate the young and to rekindle memories for the old." She continues by stating that "it is a labor of love to be able to share this with everyone." The couple hopes to be able to keep the festival going for as long as they can. "When the time comes that I can no longer participate, my hopes are for someone else to keep it going."

For many people who are not familiar with sorghum: Sorghum cane can reach heights in excess of 12 feet. A couple of days before the festival, the cane is stripped, topped and cut from a local field. The Matthews have a farm in the area where they grow about a half acre of sorghum specifically for the festival. On the festival day, early before sunrise, the cane is squeezed using a #71 Chattanooga Cane Mill Press. According to Mr. Matthews, who is the one who gets up before the chickens on festival day, "I will probably have about 35 gallons of sorghum because there has been a bumper crop this year. Sorghum is a drought tolerant crop. If we keep getting small showers, the crop should have a high yield. As of right now, it looks really good." Everyone will be able to see the process of the raw cane being turned into delicious sorghum syrup. "It is quite a process, and many find it hard to believe that syrup actually comes from the cane stalks. You can usually get 5 gallons of pure, completely organic sorghum syrup from about 45 gallons of juice; sorghum just like your grandparents would have eaten."

Annie and John will also be offering tours of the old McDaniel's School "Museum". The McDaniel's School served the local community from 1924 to 1949, educating its children. Once a year the school opens as a museum, educating everyone on the ways of our ancestors and it holds a lifetime of collecting by the couple. One of the classrooms holds a collection of antique kitchen items and another one is set up as a vintage 1930's classroom. In 2004, an "O" scale Train Layout was built that covers an entire room of the schoolhouse. This is a "Must See"! The school's auditorium is filled with an eclectic collection ranging from old farm tools and equipment, vintage radios and other amazing historical artifacts. You can also tour an original General Store which served the Mintz Community in the early 1900's. It was moved from its original location to the McDaniel School location in November of 2002. The general store has a vivid history with originally housing the Mintz Post Office from 1900-1939.

A few things to know before you visit, there is adequate parking beside the festival grounds on Boykin Bridge Road and an overflow parking area on Old Mintz Highway with a marked walking path to the Old School. There is a handicapped ramp at the rear of the school. Please bring cash to purchase items and food as internet access makes it difficult for most vendors to accept cards.

Event coordinators look forward to welcoming you to The Old School Sorghum Festival this October 16th. Please follow us on Facebook for important updates on this event and others. Bring your friends and family for a great, fun for the whole family, day at The Old School!

Whether you are a history buff, a syrup lover, or just simply looking for something to do on a Saturday, come on out to the Sorghum Festival-you'll be Glad You Did.

Davis takes over the reign as Police Chief after Chief Donald Edwards retired on July 1st of this year, serving the community for over 28 ½ years.

Helping Hands Determined to Honor Our Heroes

According to Chris Sessoms, founder of the non-profit organization Helping Hands of Sampson County, "We just want to thank all the dedicated men and women who put their lives on the line daily. Especially our Health-Care Heroes." And that is exactly what the group did on Monday by feeding the employees at Sampson Regional Medical Center in Clinton.

Americans across the country have been coming together to show their support for law enforcement, healthcare workers, and also for first responders who have put their lives on the line since the COVID-19 pandemic began in 2020.

Sessoms stated that the idea for Helping Hands began when Darren Goforth, an officer in Texas was shot "execution style" while simply pumping gas. He was 47 and had two children. Sessoms said, "I cried when I heard the news coverage of this story... My thoughts were "What can I do to help make a difference?" Well it came to me I can't help them (meaning the officers in Texas), but I can make a difference in our/my County (Sampson County). So, in October of 2014 Helping Hands began with a committee of individuals who wanted to make a difference."

Sessoms said the main goal of the organization is "To keep our hearts open to the needs of our First Responders and to help all of them know they are loved by Sampson County and we appreciate all they do for us."

The non-profit organization is made up of concerned citizens from across the county. "We have a committee of many individuals," noted Sessoms. "Business Owners, Churches, Teachers, Pastors, First Responders and local citizens."

In 2015, Helping Hands fed First Responders and their families for the first time. In 2020, the organization presented a check to a deputy who had lost everything in a house fire. Last year, Helping Hands provided all the employees of Sampson Regional with a meal and dessert as appreciation for being Hero's in the battle with Covid and also fed the men and women in local enforcement with a takeout meal.

Sessoms explained that in 2014, when the organization began, they began a mission to get citizens to donate $7 to provide a meal for one First Responder. "The support was unbelievable," exclaimed Sessoms. "Many people want to help but don't know how, by putting it together and planning it out they now can say thank you in a big way."

The group is thankful for the outpouring of support that they have received and in turn they can show support for our local first responders. "We have many churches who help us. This last event we asked for two volunteers from each church, to come together and help us prepare bags and get everything ready. We just want to thank everyone who came out to help us."

Helping Hands is important in many ways noted Sessoms. "Businesses can show their support for our community. Churches, with people from many walks of life, get together for a greater good and get to be the Hands and Feet of our Lord sharing love."

"We have nothing to do with politics so it's just individuals who want to serve others. I hope our name becomes a standard county name and people recognize us as a group of individuals who are doing good things for others."

The organization's goal was to once again show their appreciation for out HealthCare Heroes by providing a meal and snacks for the employees at Sampson Regional Medical Center. Founder Chris Sessoms stated, "The reason for the lunch was to let them know that we as a county appreciate all their efforts and many hours serving all of our community, in taking care of them during this COVID pandemic. We fed all employees, because everyone is important, no matter their job. Taking care of our county residents is a team effort."

On Monday, Helping Hands served over 340 meals and gave out over 340 doughnuts. Hospital employees were thankful for the gesture and the outpouring of love and support. Employees noted that the last 2 years had been difficult and that they could not have made it without the community support. When asked how the community could help, the answer was unanimous in that "prayers and people taking the vaccine would make all the difference."

If you would like to donate to Helping Hands or become a volunteer to help at one of their events, contact Chris Sessoms at (910)592-1337 or email them at helpinghands. sampson@gmail.com. All donations can be mailed to Helping Hands PO Box 475 Clinton NC 28329.

Local churches, businesses and individuals who donated to the event include: Peggy and Thomas Honeycutt, Betty and Jack Weeks, Betsy and Jimmy Thornton, The Roof Doctor, Performance Automotive, Chris and Company, The Psychology Club SCC, First United Methodist Church, Robert's Grove FWB, Mill Creek Baptist, Piney Grove Baptist, Grace UMC, Mt. Vernon Baptist, Central Baptist, Clinton Community Church, Turkey Pentecostal, The Vine Fellowship and .Shiloh Pentecostal Church.

Helping Hands is already in the process of planning their next event. Sessoms stated, "Our next plan is to bring a County Fair to show our appreciation for our First Responders and their families. It is planned for April 2022 at Hubbs Corn Maze."

Sampson Ag Day Coming this Fall

It's Bull Sale Time: Buy All the Bull You Can

By: Paul Gonzalez Livestock Extension Agent Sampson County Center

Most of us have calves hitting the ground right now. For some, those calves may not look exactly like you hoped they would. There are many reasons why that may be but one could be your bull isn't all you thought he was cracked up to be! And now he will be going back in to make more of those calves. Maybe it's time to find a new bull? If you find yourself in this position, let me encourage you to buy all the bull you can.

What I mean by this is think about spending a little more than you normally would on your bull to get one that has increased performance. Disappointing calf prices don't mean you should drop your bull budget. Good calves still sell. Now is the time to consider you need all the pounds to sell you possibly can at weaning. Not only will it pay off with next year's calf crop but perhaps more so when prices rebound. And we all know that even though projections are for calf prices to move up slightly for several years, the normal cattle cycle can always be turned on its ear. I know when prices are low, it is even harder to make yourself spend the money for a bull. I'm often asked what a bull is worth. While there are many variables that determine the value of an animal, the general rule is that a bull is worth 27 times the current selling price of six weight steers. According to the NCDA weekly cattle summary, the average price last week statewide for M and L 1-2 steers averaging 622 pounds was $133.59 per hundred. Using this price, bulls should be worth about $3600. Again, this is just a guide not a set rule.

Now let's do a little comparing of two bulls. Bull A has a weaning weight EPD of +30 and Bull B has an EPD of +50. Theoretically, the calves from Bull B will weigh an average of twenty pounds more at weaning than those of Bull A. We'll say these are two-year old bulls that will be used on thirty cows. If you have a ninety percent calf crop, you will have an additional 540 pounds of calf to sell. Assuming you wean five-hundred pound calves that is like having another calf to sell. So, let's say that 540 pounds sell at the average price from the same report above, which would be $139.22 per hundred for 500 - 546 pound steers. You have an additional $751in your check.

Keep in mind this is cowboy math for illustration purposes. You should make these calculations to compare prices for bulls you are interested in purchasing. In this example you could pay $750 dollars more for Bull B than you would for Bull A and still cover the additional cost of the bull with the first calf crop. If you pay more than an extra $750, you will go into other calf crops. How much more bull can you get for that $750? Depends on the sale and situation. But how many times have we seen that bull go for just another 50 bucks? It is important to figure these comparisons so you don't get into a situation where you pay more for the bull than you could ever recover. Also remember that spread between the EPD's will make a difference too. In the above example, Bull C with a +40 EPD probably won't make enough difference to justify more money. On the other hand, Bull D with a +70 EPD would be worth even more.

Additionally, if you are making comparisons between two bulls of different breeds, you need to add or subtract the appropriate adjustment factor from the across

Where else can you learn first-hand about harvesting crops, managing a hog or turkey farm, planting a garden, farm safety, and paint a barn quilt, all in one day? Sampson County Ag Day will be held at the Sampson County Agri-Exposition Center, at 414 Warsaw Road, Clinton, October 30, 2021 10:00am – 4:00 pm. The Cooperative Extension Staff, Convention & Visitors Bureau and many volunteers have worked hard to put together a fun filled, educational day to learn all about the #1 industry in and around Sampson County...you got it, agriculture. Activities are being coordinated to provide a well-rounded experience for all, learning how our local farmers harvest field crops, raise livestock and poultry, utilize and manage nutrients in soil, and best of all: provide the food and fiber to feed and clothe us all. Come see a drone demonstration, ride a barrel train from Hubb's Farm, or play 9 holes of mini golf.

For the first time ever at Ag Day, we will have a stage with live entertainment, featuring Charles Carlisle & the Grandpas, Tim Hair and the Indian Outlaw Band, Captain Jim is Magic, and Jerry Carroll - Ag Comedian! A wide variety of food trucks will be on site all day, along with NCSU Howling Cow ice cream to enjoy!

Be sure to mark your calendars to celebrate harvest season in the county that provides $1.25 billion to our state economy through agriculture. For more information on how you can be a part of this great experience, call NC Cooperative Extension, Sampson County Center at 910-592-7161, visit sampson.ces.ncsu.edu, or visit our Facebook page at NC Cooperative Extension – Sampson County. We look forward to seeing you on Saturday, October 30th.

breed EPD chart produced by USDA Meat Animal Research Center. Most breed associations have copies of this or you can obtain one from the extension office. And finally, choose a bull that meets your requirements. If you are breeding heifers, choose a low birth weight and/or high calving ease direct bull. I'm gonna get on my soap box here! By low birth weight I don't mean negative EPD's either. Lower positive EPD's will be fine. (I harped on this in a previous article so that is all I will say about it for now.) If you are breeding only mature cows, you can be a little less concerned with birth weight and calving ease EPD's and concentrate on bulls with more growth. If you never keep or sell replacement heifers, the milk EPD is of little or no concern to you. Don't try to find a bull that is perfect in all aspects. Find one that will optimize your operation and benefit buyers through the production chain. Never forget, we are in the beef business and in the end, someone will be eating what you produce. As always, if you have any questions, comments, or just want to debate the article, contact me at the Extension office, 910-592-7161.

My Most Awesome Thought

Quite unexpectedly, a few years ago, a concept that had never even occurred to me entered my mind. It was simply this:

"What is the most awesome thought I have ever had?"

I am so very thankful for my wonderful Christian heritage. At age ten I understood the truth of John 3:16, and I accepted Jesus as my personal Savior. Thankfully I have been blessed to live my life in the nurture and admonition of the Lord: a life full of ups and downs, victories and failures, but firmly grounded in the Word of God, and He has never let me down.

And then as I said, one day I became aware of a concept that was entirely new to me. My mind was consumed as I contemplated the question: "What is the most awesome thought I have ever had?" I prayed for God's guidance as I pondered that question for many days. And then, the answer came, I'll make it personal:

There on the balcony of darkest space, before God ever said, "Let there be light", I, Martha Moore Pierce, was on His mind, and in His plan. The fact that God, in His great love orchestrated the lives of my parents and my ancestral heritage, and in His Divine order I was born on March 14, 1940, is absolutely amazing to me.

To this day, I am still in awe of the fact that I was chosen to live in this world, that I am allowed to be a participant, and that I will spend all of eternity in Heaven with my Lord. Now that is an overwhelmingly awesome thought indeed!

Psalm 139:16: "Your eyes saw my unformed body. All the days ordained for me were written in Your Book before one of them came to be."

Ephesians 1:4 "...He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world."

I believe those scriptures as they apply to my life, I claim them! Yes, the most awesome thought I have ever had is this: He Chose Me, and He Redeemed Me!

Praise His Holy Name!

Now, let's take it a step further: as I live more of these precious years, now in my eighties, I have come to realize as never before that with that privilege, comes responsibility.

Jesus was once asked, "Teacher, which is the most important commandment in the law of Moses?" Jesus replied, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind and with all your strength. And, you shall love your neighbor as yourself." Matthew 22:36-40.

Friends, that truth is so simple, not necessarily easy, but entirely possible. We are to love God first and foremost, give Him our complete devotion, and then allow Him to help us love those around us. Sum it all up in one word: LOVE. GOD IS LOVE, thus as His children we are to be reflectors of that love. Pray, ask Him to show you those with whom you can share resources, instigate caring ministry, impact people with visits, cards, phone calls, hugs, and smiles. It is a promise, as you live in such a way that you are winning others through the Love of God, He will guide you. He will enable you. He will bless you!

Ponder this thought by George MacDonald: "I would rather be what God chose to make me than the most glorious creature ever; for to have been thought about, born in God's thought, and then made by God, is the dearest, grandest, and most amazingly precious thing in all thinking."

Our choices and decisions are easy once we make the ultimate choice-asking Jesus to

And to that I add a hearty, AMEN!

Have you accomplished the reason for which you were born? If not, why not? If not now, when?

let you be His person, in His world, to His people! Perhaps you would like to prayerfully consider Your Most Awesome Thought.

Will you accept my challenge?

Until Christ takes us home, may this one sentence serve as a constant reminder:

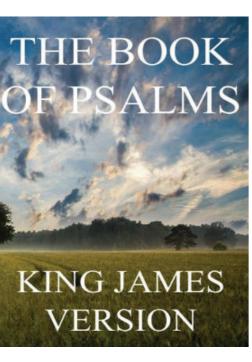

"The Visible Presence of Christ in This World is YOU!"

Bible Speaks to us in Psalms

By Linda Herring

The Bible speaks to us but the Psalms speak for us. Psalm 34:9 says, "O fear the Lord, you his saints: for there is no want to them that fear Him." As our good shepherd, He fills many roles, He is a providing Shepherd. He knows our needs before we even ask for help and he delights in meeting those needs. That means He knows what we need physically, emotionally, and spiritually. He is already at work, achieving and providing things that we may not even have thought of. As much as we might want to avoid hard times, this passage does not tell us that God will lead us around the valley, rather He leads us through. Have you experienced the Lord's provision, only to fall into doubt and fear because of loss or hardship? He has not left you. God remains faithful. Do not let the stresses of the day steal your Psalm. If you have a comment, a prayer request, contact me at herring.theword@gmail.com.

Longtime Directors Bid Farewell to SCC Foundation

Hugh Caison

Holden DuBose

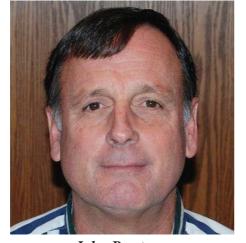

Frank Butler

Pat Green

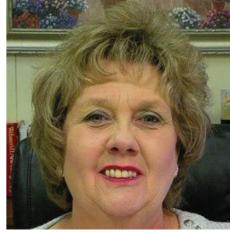

Justin Lockamy

John Prestage

Mary Brown

Sherry Matthews

The turn of a new fiscal year signals the time to bid farewell to several devoted directors of the Sampson Community College Foundation Board. Several of these departures come as a result of the SCC Foundation Board's decision to adopt new policies in 2020 which instituted term limits for directors. The directors ending their terms this summer are Mary Brown, Pat Green, Paul Viser, Sherry Matthews, John Prestage, Holden Dubose, Frank Butler, Hugh Caison, and Justin Lockamy.

The exiting directors' board service terms range from four years to thirty-five years, but their absences will be felt, nonetheless.

Anne Faircloth, SCC Foundation President, says that the departing directors will be dearly missed, but she expects their guidance and years of knowledge will continue to be called upon.

"We are profoundly grateful to the directors who are rotating off the board this year. Many of these folks were involved when I first joined the Foundation Board and have served as mentors and role models to me. We will continue to tap into their wisdom and rely on their counsel and advice," Faircloth remarked.

Mary Brown, former Director of Nursing Programs at SCC, served on the board for over 15 years. Her dedication to the college extends beyond her time teaching and her board service - with classrooms named in her honor and the establishment of the Boykin Family Endowment in honor of her family. Brown's lifelong dedication is evident even in her previous years of service on the Sampson County Schools Board of Lisa Turlington, Dean of Advancement & Executive Director of the Foundation, called Brown a friend of all. "Mary is one of the biggest cheerleaders for the College, and she is a friend to everyone she meets. It has been a great pleasure working with her on the Foundation Board," Turlington shared.

Pat Green is a founding member of the SCC Foundation Board and has served on the board since its founding in 1986. Green is the board's longest-serving director and has held various positions on the board, including President, and chaired the Appropriations Board for the last decade.

"Pat was a trailblazer as a female leader in Sampson County, and she has been a strong voice on the Foundation Board for over thirty-five years. She always took her stewardship seriously, asking tough questions and treating charitable gifts carefully as if they were her own," Turlington remarked.

Included among departing directors is Paul Viser. Viser joined the board in 2011 and has served as President and co-chair of Annual Giving. He served an important role on the Board Development and Investment Committees. Viser has also served on the SCC Board of Trustees since 2018. Dr. Viser will continue to maintain relationships with donors, students, and Foundation Directors.

"Paul's tenure on the Foundation Board reflects his dedication to providing opportunities for affordable education, workforce training, and lifelong learning to everyone in this community. He brought his signature enthusiasm for service to the board and contributed valuable experience and thoughtful consideration to the Foundation work. I know he will continue to advise and advocate for the Foundation, and the scholarships his family and Sampson Partners established will help students and elevate families for years to come," Turlington commented.

Sherry Matthews served on the board for 19 years, where she showed a commitment to promoting the Foundation and the College. Turlington commended Matthews on her professionalism.

"Sherry is an advocate for the College and all of Sampson County. I appreciate her friendship and professionalism and I know she will continue to be a friend of the Foun-

Submit your Education News to us at info@thesampsonweekly.com John Prestage joined the SCC Foundation Board in 1997. His father, Bill, helped establish the Foundation. Prestage has served as President and Finance Committee Chair during his tenure on the board. Prestage and his family and business have helped launch and support many important training programs at the college including truck driver training and agriculture education.

"John's service has had a big impact on the Foundation and how we manage the stewardship of gifts. I appreciate his dedication to the College and look forward to his continued work with the Finance Committee," Turlington said.

Paul Viser

Holden Dubose joined the Foundation Board in 2010 where he immediately began serving on the Develop the East steering committee. Dubose followed in the footsteps of his father, Charles, who was a Foundation Director.

"Holden has followed his business and family's long history of generous support and enthusiasm of the College. It has been a pleasure working with Holden and his wife, Mandy, who have graciously hosted events and advocated for the Foundation," Turlington commented.

Frank Butler has served in every leadership role since joining the SCC Foundation Board in 1997, including President. His father, Mossette, was a founding director.

"Frank and his family have truly shaped the character and direction of the Foundation since its founding. I have heavily relied on his counsel and friendship in my role at the College and will continue to appreciate his dedication to education in Sampson County," Turlington remarked.

Hugh Caison has served on the Foundation Board since 2013 and has been a major supporter of all events and campaigns since joining.

"Hugh's generosity to so many organizations in Sampson and Duplin Counties was widely known and greatly appreciated. He never denied a request for support and made fundraising fun. I will miss working with him on the Foundation Board," Turlington

Justin Lockamy has served since 2017.

"I am sad to see Justin leave the Foundation Board, but I know he will continue to advocate for the College and education in eastern NC," Turlington stated.

SCC President, Dr. Bill Starling, shared his appreciation for the departing directors for the scholarships, gifts, united fundraising, and hours of support of College activities given in their service to SCC.

"Our entire college family recognizes that so much of SCC's progress is a result of their expressions of support within the community for the opportunities we work to make available. These directors have worked to provide hundreds of students access to programs and training opportunities that have improved the lives of families," Starling remarked. "SCC is certainly a better institution because of their service, and I believe that Sampson County is as well."

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HEALTH WATCH

CONDITIONS 101 What can cause dark circles under your eyes?

Dark circles under the eyes happen when the skin appears darkened and is usually caused by being tired. This is usually not a symptom of a medical issue. According to the Mayo Clinic, dark circles may actually be shadows cast by puffy eyelids or hollows under your eyes that develop as a normal part of aging.

Common causes include:

- Allergies.
- Eczema.
- Contact dermatitis.
- Fatigue.
- Hay fever. • Heredity.
- Skin pigment irregularities.
- Rubbing or scratching your eyes.
- Sun exposure, which prompts your body to produce more melanin, the pigment that gives skin its color.
- Skin changes that happen with aging.

"If discoloration and swelling appear under just one eye and seem to get worse over time, talk to your primary care doctor," recommends the Mayo Clinic. "If you want a more lasting solution than concealers and over-thecounter creams can provide, see a dermatologist for advice. Depending on what's causing the circles under your eyes, your doctor may recommend prescription creams or a combination of treatments to erase or reduce discoloration. Laser therapy or chemical peels can be helpful in some cases. Hollows that cause shadows can be smoothed with injectable fillers, and surgery can eliminate puffy lids."

The following measures can be used to treat mild to moderate dark circles:

- Use a cold compress.
- Sleep with your head elevated on two or more pillows.
 - Get more sleep.

HEALTH STAT 88 million

According to the CDC, about 88 million American adults (more than onethird) have prediabetes, with 84% of those adults unaware that they have it. Prediabetes puts you at increased risk of developing type 2 diabetes, heart disease and stroke.

NUTRITION STATION Supplements can't replace nutrients from food

Although supplements seem like a fast, easy way to consume your daily dose of vital vitamins and nutrients, relying on them might not be the healthiest option. Here's what Healthline has to say:

"The vitamins and minerals, the ones you can also get from a cheap multivitamin, are just a small part of the total amount of nutrients in foods. Therefore, supplements cannot match the variety of nutrients you get from real foods. However, many supplements can be beneficial, especially those that contain nutrients that are generally lacking in the diet, like vitamin D. But no amount of supplements will ever make up for a bad diet. Not a chance."

Mix it u Balance workouts to create the ideal fitness plan

Genaro C. Armas

American Heart Association News

pring can be an ideal time to try a new exercise routine. Warmer temperatures make it enticing to head outdoors and, this year, more people might be considering a return to the gym after getting the COVID-19 vaccine.

While any regular physical activity can benefit your health, the ideal fitness plan requires the right balance.

The American Heart Association recommends adults get at least 150 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic exercise a week or 75 minutes of vigorous activity, or a combination of both; plus muscle-strengthening activity, such as resistance training, at least two days per week.

"Aerobic exercise should be the foundation of any exercise program," said Barry Franklin, director of preventive cardiology and cardiac rehabilitation at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Michigan.

Aerobic exercise includes activities like walking or jogging. Also known as cardio or endurance workouts, aerobic activities increase cardiorespiratory fitness and delay or prevent illnesses such as heart disease and diabetes.

Moderate-intensity physical activity makes the heart beat faster and can make breathing harder than normal, but still allows for one to carry on a conversation.

It's best to increase intensity gradually when starting a new exercise regimen, Franklin said. For instance, someone interested in running will need to start with a walking program and gradually build up speed over two to three months.

Consult a clinician if unsure how to proceed, he said. They may suggest a medically supervised treadmill test to evaluate how a person's heart rate, blood pressure and heart rhythm respond to progressive levels of exercise, as well as their level of heart-lung fitness expressed as metabolic equivalents, or METs.

150 / 75

The American Heart Association recommends adults get at least 150 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic exercise a week or 75 minutes of vigorous activity, or a combination of both; plus muscle-strengthening activity, such as resistance training, at least two days per week.

Franklin, a professor of physiology at the Wayne State University School of Medicine in Detroit, calls METs the "currency of exercise." They are used to quantify one's aerobic fitness in order to recommend the appropriate level of activity. For example, walking at a leisurely pace uses about 2 to 3 METs, while jogging or running requires 8 to 10 METs, depending on speed. The physical activity someone chooses should be at least two METs below the peak MET level reached during treadmill testing, Franklin said.

Studies have shown each 1 MET increase in exercise capacity is associated with a 10% to 25% improvement in survival. However, there is a plateau at about 10 to 12 METs, Franklin said. Someone who measures at 15 METs enjoys the same longevity benefits from being physically fit as someone at 10 to 12 METs.

"More is not always better," he said.

Strength training includes activities like lifting weights, doing pushups and stretching with resistance bands. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, these activities should work all major muscle groups in the body and can be performed on the same or different days as aerobic exercise.

FREEPIK

There's no such thing as a perfect workout or routine for everyone, said Damon Swift, associate professor of kinesiology at East Carolina University in Greenville, North Carolina.

"While the health implications of a particular exercise program are important, trying to pick activities that you enjoy and can be incorporated into a routine is also a very important factor," he said. For instance, some people may find more motivation by taking a walk with friends, while others may prefer to work out by themselves and lift weights.

Swift's latest research project found exercise coupled with coaching sessions that boosted participants' non-exercise physical activity by 3,000 steps per day resulted in greater improvement in fitness than aerobic training alone. Participants who had higher step counts also tended to lose more weight and body fat.

The bottom line: Whatever you choose to do, just keep moving.

"The biggest risk of death is being both inactive and having a high level of sedentary time," Swift said. "If we can get the people who are inactive to do some kind of activity, that's when you get the most bang for the buck."

TODAY'S WORKOUT

This move focuses on lower back, glutes

hat is your go-tomove when it comes to working your backside? The possibilities are endless and even better when they target multiple zones.

Our move today is a pulsing dead lift with light weights. This exercise is going to focus on the lower back, glutes and hamstrings. You will need a set of light to medium hand weights or a body bar for this exercise.

Start this pulsing dead lift by grasping your chosen weight in each hand. Rolling your shoulders back and down, lifting your chest andengaging your core, plant your feet at least hip width apart with your toes pointing forward. Your arms should be extended downward, with your palms resting on your thighs. Once you are in position, you are ready to proceed. Keeping your chest lifted tall, begin to bendthe hips leaning your chest forward and extending your arms toward your toes. Keep your rear end pointed to the back and the bend in the knees soft to avoid locking them out.

Once you reach your lowest position in your dead left, you will hold it there and proceed to pulse tiny up-and down movements for at least a count of three.

Once you reach your desired amount of pulses at the bottom, slowly return the move back upward to the start.

Marlo Alleva demonstrates a pulsing deadlift with light weights. [ERNST PETERS]

Then immediately return back down to the bottom, adding your pulses, and then back up again. Continue this exercise for at least 10 repetitions.

Take a small break, release any pressure in your back, then continue on into your next set shooting for at least three sets of 10 repetitions. You may find that you need to increase your weight for this exercise, or you can always lighten the load, or even proceed with no wait at all, especially if your balance is compromised.

Keep this exercise slow and focus on the zones you are targeting, and this will soon become your go-to move for your summer body.

...by God's Grace

By God's Grace, Tim's Gift Inc. held their first fund raising event at Coharie Country Club in 2010 and will host the 11th Hope Project Golf Tournament on October 22, 2021. The Hope Project aligns with the vision of Tim's Gift by giving financial help and hope to those in need throughout our city, county, and beyond. We are grateful for community support and brotherly love that enables us to 'keep on keeping on' sharing the love of our Lord in places we never imagined possible (two foreign countries)...but especially here at home!

Showing appreciation and sending 'thank you cards' to each person who helps make an event - like a golf tournament - possible is important. Jesus taught the importance of showing respect, appreciation, and kindness...even to little children who loved His attention and tugged at His heartstrings.

When I was a little girl, my mother modeled showing appreciation to people by sending notes, calling (on our --7 family- party line phone), and sharing a short visit with a gift of appreciation. When she made her huge pots of homemade soup, I could hardly wait for suppertime and the visits we would make delivering soup to people in our community. Each new season, she insisted I ride with her to two cemeteries where we cleaned, placed new flowers, and prayed at family members' graves. What I did not appreciate or understand the impact of then, I do today! Mother's legacy of showing appreciation and respect - for those living here and in heaven - lives on through her children. My joy to serve the Lord and love His children is new every morning. Nothing could be finer than helping those in need or sending a card, making a call, and showing appreciation to people God puts in place to color our world with love and support!

Sam Gore, who went to be with Jesus this year, served alongside Jennifer and myself for two years. His gifts included preaching God's Word and teaching essentials that helped non-profit organizations be successful. Sam stressed sending cards to people who support (in any way) within 24 hours of their contribution. Mother and Sam's lessons live on as we humbly go forth in faith and give God the glory for growth and gusto to give help and hope.

At Tim's Gift, we believe in the power of the written and spoken word that extends heartfelt appreciation and sincere sentiments of love. We might miss the 24 hour window, but make it a top priority to tell people who plant seed gifts, pray for, or powerfully support Tim's Gift in any way..." thank you for giving and helping grow a hometown ministry that strives to share God's Word and Jesus' ways, give help and hope, and teach the world to sing in loving unity in these dismal days'!

By God's Grace...let us all seek ye the kingdom of God and show loving kindness wherever He leads, 'for such a time as this'!

In His love, Becky
