AUTUMN: PREPARING FOR THE TURN OF THE YEAR
with Janet Carson

Saturday, October 4
at 9:30am

Autumn is a time of transition in the garden. It's about harvesting the last of the summer bounty and beginning preparations for the colder months ahead. This includes cleaning out spent plants, reorganizing your space, and beginning to plant plants that prefer cooler weather. Come join Janet Carson as she shares her vast knowledge on making your landscape and potted containers the envy of your neighborhood. As always, enjoy some delicious refreshments!

AUTUMN AT CHRIS' "BIG O FARM"
with Chris H. Olsen

Saturday, October 25
at 10:00 am

Location:
Big O Farm / 10101 Peters Road / Cabot, AR

As late summer transitions into fall, the garden transitions too—as many of the plants that bloomed in the summer begin to produce seeds or go dormant—but the late season garden still has so much left to admire.

Join Chris H. Olsen as he shares some of the many plants whose eye-catching flowers, attractive foliage, or interesting seed heads can extend your garden's season as the days shorten and the temperatures cool. During this lecture, enjoy a guided stroll through the gardens of Chris' "Big O Farm" to see firsthand how he adds fall interest in the landscape as well as in his farm house.
