

A conceptual illustration of business transformation. Large, dark blue puzzle pieces are arranged in a grid. Several business professionals in business attire are interacting with these pieces: one man is placing a piece at the top right, another man is placing a piece on the right side, and a group of three women are on the left, one of whom is placing a piece. The background is a blurred office environment with desks, chairs, and large windows. The overall color palette is dark blue and grey.
