Dear Members of the Atlanta Commissioned Officers Association,

On behalf of the Rollins School of Public Health at Emory University, I extend our sincere appreciation for your dedication to our shared mission of protecting and advancing public health.

The work of the United States Public Health Service Commissioned Corps officers exemplifies leadership, commitment, and service. Your efforts not only contribute directly to the health and well-being of our communities but also serve as a powerful example for our students, faculty, and staff who are preparing to lead in public health practice and research.

We are especially grateful for the opportunities to collaborate with your members through educational initiatives, mentorship, and community engagement. These efforts enrich the educational experience at Rollins and foster the development of the next generation of public health professionals.

We look forward to further collaboration in pursuit of healthier communities—locally, nationally, and globally.

With deep gratitude for your unwavering commitment to public health and service,

M. Daniele Fallin, PhD
