University Students Highlight

Hello EWK community! This month, we're excited to highlight our students attending independent universities. These aspiring professionals, from electricians honing their skills to future animal production specialists and operating theatre technologists, are diving into practical courses that prepare them for rewarding careers.

As they navigate their educational journeys, it's essential that these students have access to the latest technology and tools to succeed in the digital and AI revolution. We invite you to support our mission by contributing to our technology fund. Your donations will help provide the essential resources they need to excel in their studies and confidently step into the workforce.

Samuel is studying Electrical Engineering at the Masinga Institute of Professional Studies in Thika, Kenya. His journey has been shaped by resilience, having lived at 208 Juja Children's Home since losing his parents. Samuel shares "Gaining college admission is a dream realized. I aspire to become an accomplished electrician and positively impact my community." Samuel's passion for electrical systems drives his studies, where he enjoys hands-on experiences. He values integrity and hard work and aims to inspire others in his home. After graduation, Samuel hopes to secure a job in a reputable company and eventually start his own electronics shop. His hobbies include cycling and hiking, and he is currently reading "My Utmost for His Highest."

Stacy is a Mount Kenya University student pursuing a Certificate in Animal Health and Production. Recently, she was awarded the $1,000 Andrew Perkins Scholarship, generously delivered by a friend of EWK, Robert Skilton. Stacy plans to use this support for a laptop and other school supplies for her studies. Congratulations Stacy!

Ann Wangari is a student at MKU-Equip Africa who is currently enrolled in a Certificate Perioperative Theatre course. She is an enthusiastic student who is not afraid to show her flair, as seen in a recent photo shoot. When asked about her future aspirations, Ann emphatically states that she looks forward to one day giving back to society.

Maen is the final student at Mount Kenya University pursuing a Certificate in Perioperative Theatre. She's grateful to all EWK donors who facilitate her education at MKU. When not in school, Maen is a true fashionista!

Janet recently became an EWK scholar and we are pleased to add her to our rolls. She is a medical student at Kenya Medical Training Center in Makweni, Kenya. We are pleased to welcome her into the EWK family and look forward to seeing her through her course.

Bilha is a Mount Kenya University – Equip Africa student pursuing a Certificate course in Perioperative Theatre Technology. When she's not studying or working on clinicals, Bilha enjoys photography and content creation on social media.

Purity is a Mount Kenya University – Equip Africa student pursuing a Certificate course in Perioperative Theatre Technology. She plans to be a theatre nurse when she's done. Purity is looking forward to making a difference in her community and has a passion for helping the less fortunate.

Peter Kamande is a shy young man as depicted in this picture. He's an incoming student at Mount Kenya University in Thika, Kenya. Irene Muturi, EWK Director, visited with Peter last August to discuss his goals and university enrollment. EWK wishes Peter all the best as he embarks on the Management Information Certificate course.

Emma's smile is infectious. She's always upbeat and has her goals set on becoming a theatre nurse. Like her friends, she's studying a Perioperative Theatre Technology course at MKU-Equip Africa. She recently started her clinical studies and is very excited. Emma often expresses her gratitude to those who continue to make her schooling possible.
