

About

In 2018 I started my photography journey. At first I started out with a Digital Compact Camera which at the time mobile phone camera's were only just coming popular.

When we first visited the Isle of Arran I did use a my Digital Compact Camera and a year or two years later we when we went back, I wanted to get a camera that was more advanced so I could get better quality photos knowing how beautiful the Isle of Arran was, so I purchased my first bridge camera.

After seeing the quality of photos compared to what I was using before my camera journey begun. After a couple of years of using my Bridge Camera and now I use my DSLR.

My main passion for photography is Landscape/Nature as this stemmed from my cycling days being out in the hills.

Since I joined Burnley Camera Club in 2023 my photography skills and confidence have envolved and I have since learnt how to do Portrait's, a couple of small Events, Family & Birthday Shoots and Pet Photography to which I'm still evolving in these area's.

Whilst I don't do photography for competitions that's not to say I haven't had a ago. I mainly do photography just for the enjoyment and appreciate nature more.
