1. Looks like Halper has problems! We learned from earlier drops that Sara Carter & John Solomon are receiving inside info (presumably from Q team). "Vital to delivering the message."

Ohr will be testifying tomorrow about his role in the Steele dossier.

Lovinger also raised concerns about Halper's role in conducting what appeared to be diplomatic meetings with foreigners on behalf of the U.S. government because his role as contractor forbids him from doing so, according to U.S. federal law.

An investigation by SaraACarter.com reveals that the documents and information Lovinger stumbled on and other documents obtained by this news site, raise troubling questions about Halper, who was believed to have worked with the CIA and part of the matrix of players in the bureau's 'CrossFire Hurricane' investigation into Trump's 2016 presidential campaign. Halper, who assisted the FBI in the Russia investigation, appears to also have significant ties to the Russian government, as well as sources connected directly to President Vladimir Putin.

Two pieces of evidence that have come together prove anti-Trump dossier writer Christopher Steele was the key source for a Yahoo News story that the FBI cited to support its wiretap application.

To bolster the dossier's charge that Mr. Page met with two Kremlin figures in Moscow, the FBI cited the Yahoo News article, which said the same thing.

But the Nunes memo said the FBI, in its Foreign Surveillance Intelligence Act application, wasn't corroborating the dossier because the Page accusation in Yahoo came from the same source: Mr. Steele.

"The Carter Page FISA application also cited extensively a September 23, 2016 Yahoo News article by Michael Isikoff, which focuses on Page's July 2016 trip to Moscow," the memo states. "This article does not corroborate the Steele dossier because it is derived from information leaked by Steele himself to Yahoo News."
