New Q (26 Jun 20): "Would a jury of peers agree their actions were reckless? Would a jury of peers agree their actions were negligent?"

Depends on whether or not jury is made up of Dems.

Republicans are demanding answers from Dem Governors about their disastrous nursing home orders:

House Republicans press state AGs to probe governors' deadly nursing home orders

WASHINGTON, DC - On Thursday, all five Republican members of the House Select Subcommittee on the Coronavirus Crisis, as well as Republican members of the New York, California, Michigan, New Jersey and Pennsylvania delegations, urged the attorneys general of those states to investigate the origins of their governors' deadly nursing home orders and the impact those orders had on their states' elderly populations.

The new letters come more than a week after Select Subcommittee members wrote to the Democratic governors of those five states requesting information about their nursing home orders. So far only New York Governor Andrew Cuomo has failed to respond directly, and only California Governor Gavin Newsom has provided a partial response.

"These governors are withholding information from the public and House Democrats are letting them get away with it with their partisan refusal to join our investigation. As a result, we are now calling on the attorneys general of these states to investigate the orders behind these avoidable tragedies," said Republican Whip and Select Subcommittee Ranking Member Steve Scalise (R-La.) "Grieving families of those who died as a result of these orders deserve answers about why they were put in place and the full extent of their impact, and there is no amount of stonewalling, name-calling, or blame-shifting that will make us give up on getting them."

Did order(s) violate government mandated policies?
Would a jury of peers agree their actions were reckless?
Would a jury of peers agree their actions were negligent?

"The immunity of a state from suit has long been held not to extend to actions against state officials for damages arising out of willful and negligent disregard of state laws.¹⁶⁵ The reach of the rule is evident in Scheuer v. Rhodes,¹⁶⁶ in which the Court held that plaintiffs were not barred by the Eleventh Amendment or other immunity doctrines from suing the governor and other officials of a state alleging that they deprived plaintiffs of federal rights under color of state law and seeking damages, when it was clear that plaintiffs were seeking to impose individual and personal liability on the officials. There was no "executive immunity" from suit, the Court held; rather, the immunity of state officials is qualified and varies according to the scope of discretion and responsibilities of the particular office and the circumstances existing at the time the challenged action was taken."

4. Q's grammar was incorrect (intentionally) here.

Should read "As darkness falls so DO our enemies."

The extra [ES] in "does" is possibly a hint about Google's Eric Schmidt in light of DOJ's antitrust case vs Google. Is ES about to go down?

Justice Department to talk 'next steps' in Google antitrust suit

The federal investigation has been focused on search bias, advertising and management of Google's Android operating system.
