

Goodbye Windows 10...

Microsoft has announced that they will end support for their popular Windows 10 operating system in 2025. This means Microsoft will stop supporting Windows 10 and will no longer issue online security patches or further updates. But don't dismay, because...

Hello Windows 11!

Microsoft plan to release Windows 11 in late November 2021, with the good news being that it will be a free update to existing Windows 10 users.

This will affect both personal and business users in equal measure as more and more users will start using this upgrade, making some existing Windows 10 software and compatible hardware obsolete.

However, older versions of Windows, such as Windows 7 and 8.1 may not be able to upgrade directly to Windows 11. Please contact me and I can discuss this with you.

Are you ready?

Major differences are that devices will require specific hardware and software requirements to ensure that Windows 11 runs correctly.

I have already updated my devices to adhere to the new Windows 11 requirements.