Overview

Established in 2020 by Joshua Weribone, a proud Mandandanji man from Toowoomba, Queensland, Songline Skateboarding is an Indigenous-owned enterprise dedicated to empowering youth through skateboarding. Our mission is to provide engaging workshops and programs that not only teach skateboarding skills but also impart valuable life lessons, fostering resilience, confidence, and community among participants.

Our Vision

To be a leading force in youth development, using skateboarding as a tool to inspire, educate, and connect communities across Australia, while celebrating and integrating Indigenous culture and values.

Our Mission

Our mission is deliver high-quality skateboarding workshops and programs that promote physical activity, personal growth, and cultural awareness, creating positive outlets for youth and strengthening community bonds.

Core Services

Skateboarding & Mentorship Programs

Our structured skateboarding workshops and mentorship sessions foster skill-building, confidence, teamwork, and leadership among youth participants. Programs include group sessions, one-on-one mentoring, and tailored youth development initiatives.

Cultural Engagement

We integrate rich cultural storytelling and traditional practices into all programs, helping participants develop a strong cultural identity, self-awareness, and pride in their heritage. Activities include storytelling sessions, traditional art workshops, and culturally relevant leadership training.

Education & School Programs

Songline Skateboarding collaborates closely with educational institutions to deliver engaging, culturally integrated programs. These include in-school skateboarding sessions, curriculum-aligned personal development workshops, and engaging school holiday camps and activities designed to boost school engagement and educational outcomes.

Health & Wellbeing

Our health-focused programs aim to enhance physical fitness, mental resilience, and social skills. Through partnerships with health providers, we deliver mental health awareness workshops, resilience-building activities, and physical health programs designed to foster holistic wellbeing among participants.
