My journey with natural dyes began in 1994 at a transformative workshop in Munnar, where I discovered the vibrant magic of colors derived from nature. This eco-friendly, chemical-free art form instantly captivated me, sparking a lifelong passion to promote its beauty and sustainability. What began as a personal interest soon evolved into a mission to bring this craft to others in meaningful ways. At Tata Tea Limited, I spearheaded the Natural Dye project, training differently abled youth to embrace this unique skill. It was a deeply rewarding experience to witness how this craft not only enriched their lives with creativity but also empowered them with livelihood opportunities. Over the past 25 years, my enthusiasm for natural dyes has led me to attend countless workshops and conduct training sessions across the globe, spreading awareness and love for this ancient art.
