

27 Days - China & Tibet with Mt. Kailash May 16th - June 11th, 2020

Pilgrimage/expedition leader: Buddhist author and meditation teacher

Glenn Mullin

Beijing, Tibet & Mt. Kailash

In 2020 I will lead my last pilgrimage to Kailash, the sacred mountain in Western Tibet that is the source of the four holiest rivers of the Indian Sub-Continent.

In recent years, I have led my Tibet Tours, meeting and departing in Nepal... Since this will be my last Pilgrimage to Mt. Kailash, and I'm confident it will be a full program, I decided that entering Tibet from Beijing, and continuing to Mt. Kailash from Lhasa would make for a better program... all being handled on a single China Visa. Flights in and out of Beijing are less expensive from most places, than those in and out of Kathmandu, Nepal.

We have this 27-day program which is the identical program that I have led previously through the years, and this year, I had a couple of friends that needed to reduced itinerary to 20 days. The shorter program arrives in Beijing exactly one week later, and travels directly to meet with the earlier group in Lhasa... from there, everyone travels together for the Pilgrimage to Mt. Kailash. The earlier group has the advantage of exploring Tibet, and gradually getting acclimated to the higher altitudes. NOTE: I realize that most travelers are concerned about the high altitude, and that concern is justified... however, I have learned over the years to present the program in a way that allows every ample time to acclimate. This year will be no exception.

Mt. Kailash (6714m) is the most sacred mountain in Asia. It is believed to be the physical embodiment of the mythical Mt Meru, said to be the center of the universe or 'navel of the world'. Mt. Kailash has long been an object of worship for four major religions: for Hindu, it is domain of Shiva. It is also the abode of samvara-a multiarmed, wrathful deity worshipped in the chakrasamvara Tantric cycle of Tibetan Buddhism. The joins of India also reverse the mountain as the site at which the first of their saints emancipated. And in the ancient Bon religion of Tibet, Kailash was the sacred nine storied Swastika Mountain, upon which the Banpo founder Shenrab alighted from haven. The 53 km. Kailash circuit is the holist of all-Hindu as well as Buddhist pilgrimages and the beacon, which draws most travelers to western Tibet. It is said that a single Parikarma erases the accumulated sins of a lifetime, while 108 circumambulations (Kora) will achieve Salvation.

Projected 27 day Itinerary

Day 01; 16 May 2020: Arrive in Beijing

Then transfer to the hotel. We will choose a hotel near the airport, making it easy for transfer both on arrival and on departure.

Overnight at 4 star hotel near the airport; Meals - [-/-/D]

Day 02; 17 May 2020: Visit Tiananmen Square and The Imperial Palace

Located at the center of Beijing City and the midpoint of Chang'an Avenue is the remarkable Tiananmen Square, where you can visit the Tiananmen Tower, Monument to the People's Heroes, Great Hall of the People, Chairman Mao Zedong Memorial Hall and see the national flag raising ceremony. Thousands of people come to the Square every day. It is the must place to visit in Beijing City.

After touring the attractions around the Tiananmen Square, tourists often choose to visit the Forbidden City, which is just to the north of the Tiananmen Tower.

Forbidden City, also known as the Palace Museum, and Gu Gong in Chinese, lies at the city center of Beijing, and once served as the imperial palace for 24 emperors during the Ming and Qing Dynasties (1368 - 1911). It was first built throughout 14 years during the reign of Emperor Chengzu in the Ming Dynasty (1368-1644). Ancient Chinese Astronomers believed that the Purple Star (Polaris) was in the center of heaven and the Heavenly Emperor lived in the Purple Palace. The Palace for the emperor on earth was so called the Purple City. It was forbidden to enter without special permission of the emperor. Hence its name 'The Purple Forbidden City', usually 'The Forbidden City'.

Day 03; 18 May 2020: Fly to Xining. Visit Kumbum Monastery

Fly to Xining in Qinghai, and transfer directly to Kumbum, the birthplace of Lama Tsongkhapa, the founder of the Dalai Lama School of Buddhism. The old Tibetan name for Xining is Tsongkha. A boy born here in 1357 became a monk by the name of Lobsang Drakpa, and founded the Dalai Lama School of Tibetan Buddhism, by uniting the best lineages from the 30 or so sects of Indian Buddhism that had emerged in the various regions of Tibet over the centuries preceding him. He became famous as Tsongkhapa, "The Master from Tsongkha." In ancient times Tsongkha was a buffer zone between Tibet and Mongolia, sometimes belonging to one and at other times to the other. The present Dalai Lama was also born in this region in 1935. When the Manchu Mongols conquered China in 1644, Tsongkha became a protectorate of the Manchu Mongols, mainly because the Manchu kings had been patrons of the Lama Tsongkhapa School of Tibetan Buddhism for over two centuries before their conquest of China. Overnight at 4-star hotel in the city; Meals - [B/-/-]

Day 04; 19 May 2020: Visit Kumbum Monastery. Later, train to Lhasa.

Overnight in Train Soft Sleeper; Meals - [B/L/D].

Day 05; 20 May 2020: Arrive Lhasa. Drive to Tsedang.

Lhasa, which means ‘the land of the gods’ is the heart and soul of Tibet. It is a city of wonders, the capital of the Tibet autonomous region of China. The city contains many culturally significant Tibetan Buddhist religious sites and lies in a valley next to the Lhasa River. For centuries, this holy city has attracted travelers from all over the world, drawn by beautiful scenery, cultural heritage and its mysticism leaves the travelers captivated.

Upon reaching Lhasa, drive further to Tsedang - known as the cradle of Tibetan Civilization. The ancient town offers a number of side trips that illustrate Tibet's early history the Valley of the Kings (ancient capital of the Yarlung Kings who established the Tibetan Nation).

Overnight at Hotel Tsedang; Meals - [-/-/D]

Day 06; 21 May 2020: In Tsedang - Visit Yumbu Lakhang Palace and Tredruk temple

Yambu Lakhang Palace, built in the 2nd century B.C, Yambu Lakhang Palace stands on top of a hill on the east bank of the Yalong River in the southeast of Naidong county. It is situated about 12 kilometers south of Tsedang and was built by King Nyatri Tsedpo who is believed to have descended from heaven. It's the oldest known building in Tibet, and the first building in Tibet. It is a fortress-like dwelling built on the spur of a hill that commands an impressive view of the entire fertile valley below.

Also visit Tradruk Monastery. Built in the 7th Century by King Songtsen Gampo, Tradruk Monastery is one of the earliest Buddhist temples in Tsedang, Tibet. It was the Chinese princess, Wencheng, who helped Songtsen Gampo's wife, Princess Bhrikuti of Nepal with astrological prediction to build the temple. The temple therefore got its name Tradruk, ‘Tra’ meaning falcon and ‘druk’ meaning dragon. It is one of the three royal monasteries, and also the winter palace of the Chinese King and Princess Wencheng. During the reign of Lang-Dharma and Mongols’ invasion, the temple was damaged and later renovated by the fifth Dalai Lama.

The major attraction of the temple is the Thangka of Avalokitesvara, embroidered with thousands of precious pearls and stones. The Thangka is said to be one the three Thangkas made by Princess Wencheng herself. A famous statue of ‘talking Padmasambhava’ or Tara at the age of eight years is also placed inside Tradruk. Outside the temple, you can find several stalls selling local Tibetan products.

Overnight at Hotel Tsedang; Meals - [B/L/D]

Day 07; 22 May 2020: Drive to Samye and visit monastery

After the breakfast, drive to Samye enjoying the charismatic views of Himalayas and natural wilderness.

Samye Monastery is the first monastery built in Tibet and was founded in 775 by King Trisong Detsen. Samye Monastery means “unexpected and full of surprise” in Tibetan and its construction history is quite legendary. Samye Moanstery was built according to the Mandala design in Tibetan Buddhist Culture, in the layout of the central temple symbolizes the legendary Mount Meru, center of the universe. Although, it was rebuilt for many times of destructions, the construction pattern still kept the beginning style.

Overnight at Samye Guest House; Meals - [B/L/D]

Day 08; 23 May 2020: Drive to Lhasa. Visit Barkhor Street.

Today, you'll be transferred to Lhasa, and start your tour of Barkhor Street, the oldest street in Lhasa and runs through the center of the old city. It is a circular street where Tibetan culture, economy, religion and arts assemble. The word Barkhor refers to the middle of the three concentric holy circuits around the Jokhang

The Barkhor Circuit runs through the heart of the old city where life has changed little down the centuries and it gives you a curious sensation of having slipped through time into a medieval carnival. Tibetans walk clockwise around the Jokhang Temple to pay their respects to Sakyamuni, establishing Barkhor Street as Tibet's "Sacred Way". Each day hundreds of Buddhist pilgrims flow in from every corner of Tibet and across China to make the trek through Barkhor Street. Some merely walk, but some progress by body-lengths along the street clockwise every day into deep night to worship Sakyamuni. Barkhor will allow you to experience firsthand the religious fervor of Tibet.

Overnight at Kyichu Hotel; Meals - [B/L/D]

Day 09; 24 May 2020: Visit Drepung and Nechung Monastery.

About 8km to the west of central Lhasa, Drepung is one of the "great three" Gelukpa university monasteries of Tibet. The other two are Ganden and Sera. Seen from afar, Drepung's grand, white construction gives the monastery the appearance of a heap of rice hence; Drepung literally means 'heaps of rice'. The fertility of its fields supported a monastic community that before 1959, ranked as Tibet's largest monastery with 7,770 monks. Since the 1950s, Drepung Monastery, along with its peers Ganden and Sera have lost much of their independence and spiritual credibility in the eyes of Tibetans since they operate under the close watch of the Chinese security.

The Drepung Monastery houses many cultural relics, making it more beautiful and giving it more historical significance. Statues of famous celebrities in Buddhism are found on the first story of the Coqen Hall, rare sutras on the second story, and a famous conch shell on the third one. All of these add to the mystique of the monastery. Also visit the Nechung Monastery.

About 10 minutes away from Drepung Monastery, Nechung Gompa or Monastery is known as the place linked with possession, exorcism and other pre-Buddhist rites. It was also known as the seat of the Tibetan State Oracle until 1959. The practice of Tibetan oracles was widespread which is believed that the person who is possessed by a god or spirit acts as an agent or counsellor directing answers to any given questions. Nechung oracle was the medium of Dorje Drakde, one of the aspects of Pehar who was regarded as the guardian deity of the treasures of Samye Monastery before being the Gelugpa protector of the Buddhist state. The Dalai Lamas always made sure to consult with him before making any important decisions. In 1904, the oracle resigned in disgrace and fled to India along with Dalai Lama. Overnight at Kyichu Hotel; Meals - [B/L/D]

Day 10; 25 May 2020: Drive to Drak Yerpa Caves hike and back to Lhasa

A short drive to North – East of Lhasa, is the Yerpa Cave one of the holiest cave retreats ever. At one time, the hill at the base of the Cave – dotted cliffs was home to the Yerpa Monastery. The Monastery, however, was effectively laid to waste in the Cultural Revolution and there is very little to see nowadays. From the ruins of the monastery, it is possible to see some of the cave retreats a couple of hundred meters away.

The history of Drak Yerpa includes many of the great names responsible for the establishment of Buddhism in Tibet. The Emperor Songtsen Gampo meditated in seclusion here: Guru Rimpoche and several of his disciples also meditated here. Although the ancient Kadampa Gompa has been destroyed, the geomantic qualities that made Drak Yerpa a major power place still remain and still attract hermits to its caves. The site is very peaceful and offers stunning views.

Day 11; 26 May 2020: Drive to Ganden Monastery and back to Lhasa

Today we visit Ganden Monastery. Ganden Monastery is located on Wangbur Mountain, on the southern bank of Lhasa River about 47 kms from Lhasa City. It stands at an altitude of 3,800 meters above sea level. It is one of the earliest and largest Buddhist monasteries in Tibet. Its full name is Ganden Namgyal Ling (dga' ldan rnam rgyal gling). Ganden means 'joyful' and is the Tibetan name for Tusita, the heaven where the bodhisattva Maitreya is said to reside. Namgyal Ling means 'victorious temple'.

Founded by Je Tsongkhapa in 1409, Ganden Monastery originally belonged to the Geluk order, and it was traditionally considered to be the seat of Geluk administrative and political power.

Overnight (Both groups) at Kyichu Hotel; Meals - [B/L/D]

Day 12; 27 May 2020: Visit to Jokhang Temple and Sera Monastery

Jokhang meaning 'House of the Lord' in Tibetan is located at the center of the old Lhasa and is the oldest and the most revered religious structure in Tibet. Built in 647 by Songtsen Gampo, it has a history of more than 1,300 years. It was built by craftsmen from Tibet, China and Nepal and thus features an intriguing mix of architectural styles.

Afternoon, visit Sera Monastery, 5km North of Lhasa. The Sera Monastery's setting is one of the prettiest in Lhasa, hugging the ridge that forms the Northern wall of the Kyi Chu Valley. Founded in 1419, Sera Monastery is one of the "great three" Gelukpa university monasteries in Tibet. The other two are Ganden Monastery and Drepung Monastery. The origin of the name 'Sera' is not certain, but it may have come from the wild roses (sera in Tibetan) surrounding the original site.

The monastery is magnificent, featuring a unique style quite different from other famous monasteries in Lhasa and covering an area of 114,946 square meters (28 acres). Its main buildings are the Coqen Hall, Zhacang (college) and Kamcun (dormitory). Buddhist Scriptures written in gold powder, fine statues, scent cloths and unparalleled murals can be found in these halls. The monastery is a Buddhist think-tank and lively debates on Buddhist doctrines are held here.

Day 13; 28 May 2020: Visit to Potala Palace

After breakfast, visit Potala Palace... the chief residence of the Dalai Lama since the 7th century has been the focus of the travelers for centuries. It is the cardinal landmark and a structure of massive proportion. It symbolizes Tibetan Buddhism and its role in the traditional administration of Tibet. It is an architectural gem that was built in the colossal monastic style of Central Tibet in the 7th century but rebuilt in the mid-17th century. The Tibetans themselves rarely speak of the sacred place as the "Potala", but rather as "Peak Potala" (Tse Potala), or usually as "The Peak."

The Potala palace is one of Tibet's most impressive and enduring monuments that was protected by the Chinese Army of Red Guards during the Cultural Revolution. As a result, many of its chapels and treasures are intact, virtually unchanged since the 17th century. It was listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1994.

It is located on a hill in the center of Shigatse, the second largest city in Tibet. Tashi Lhunpo in Tibet means "all fortune and happiness gathered here" or "heap of glory".

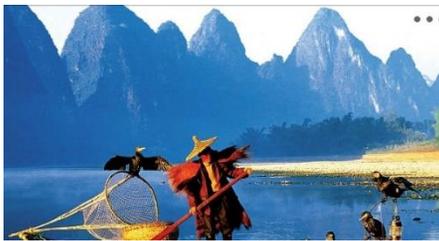

Founded by the First Dalai Lama in 1447, the monastery is the traditional seat of successive Panchen Lamas, the second highest-ranking tulku lineage in the Gelukpa tradition. Tashi Lhunpo in its prime had over 4,000 monks, but after the Tibetan national uprising that took place in 1959, a handful of Tashi Lhunpo Monastery monks along with many thousands of Tibetans escaped into India.
