South Florida Basketball Pro-Am Mentorship

The Pro-Am searches for exceptional talents from Division 1 college level and Division 1 Prospects from high school that can compete at the pro level. The phenomenal players from college and high school are sought after to play in this highly competitive league to be mentored on competitive spirit, mental toughness, physical & mental prowess among other basketball situations that are brought on. Mentoring their game-to-game situations through the technique and visions of former greats. The mentors provide advice and knowledge to mentees and also give them the edge of having an adult that has lived in their shoes. The kids will also look up to these former professionals athletes because of their basketball talents and career choices.

The league will take place on Thursday evenings from 7p.m. – 11p.m. The league will be held from June 28, 2007 through August 31, 2007 at Miami-Dade College – North Campus 11380 N.W. 27th Avenue Miami, Florida 33167. All games will be stop time with a roster maximum of 10 players per team. All players must check in every game at the check in table before stepping on the court, in addition, sign a waiver before the first game in order to participate.

This league will showcase the most talented basketball players in South Florida with the professional teams comprising of players like Raja Bell of the Phoenix Suns, James Jones of the Phoenix Suns, Glenn Rice formerly of the Miami Heat, Tim Hardaway formerly of the Miami Heat, Mike James of the Minnesota Timberwolves and Voshon Leonard formerly of the Miami Heat. The event will serve as a springboard to give our youth the opportunity to compete in a safe, competitive environment and have the opportunity to see top flight talent. An opportunity the young players would not normally have to enhance their skills.
