

Elliot Glicksman wrote this book to answer all of life's questions, even ones people never had. For decades he wanted to write a book in the worst way, and with So Far So Good, he might have achieved his goal.

You'll laugh, you'll cry, you'll roll your eyes. And looming over all the humor you'll succumb to the gigantic heart at the core of Elliot's story.

Whether he's opening for Phyllis Diller or Jerry Seinfeld, defending crime victims in a courtroom, or being a husband and dad and grandpa, Elliot documents his experience in this book with joy and mirth that you will find irresistible.

Elliot Glicksman

Elliot Glicksman is a retired lawyer who, for most of his 42 year legal career worked to obtain compensation for crime victims, mostly people injured from a drunk driver or as the result of a sexual assault victims. He is the Past President of the Arizona Association for Justice and Homicide Survivors, Inc. He also served on the Advisory Board of the National Crime Victims Bar Association. Elliot was the also first President of the Tucson Citizen's Police Advisory Committee. He is also the founder and former President of the Tucson Jazz Festival.

For his community work, Elliot has been the recipient of the Arizona Chapter of the American Jewish Committee's 2014 Learned Hand Award for Community Service, the 2009 Cystic Fibrosis Breath of Life Award, a Compass Health Dynamic Duo Award with his wife Lorraine, the 2017 Steven M. Gootter Award for his philanthropic efforts and in 2010 he was named one of the top 50 Pro Bono Lawyers in Arizona.

In 1981, Elliot began performing stand up comedy, first as one half of the team of Bob and Bob and later as Danny Boskowitz because he thought Elliot Glicksman might sound too Jewish. In the course of his comedy career, he opened for Jerry Seinfeld, Gilbert Gottfried and Phyllis Diller. Elliot is currently a member of Dave Fitzsimmons' Arroyo Café Players. Elliot is married to his wife Lorraine and is the father of Jill, Ben and Zach.
