Volume 22 Issue 4

Oct-Dec 2022

Points of Interest

- St. Nikolaus Day is celebrated 6 December each year.
- It is named after Bishop Nikolaus (270-343 A.D.).
- He was Bishop of Myra, Asia Minor, now in Turkey.
- 6 December is the anniversary of his death. He represents generosity, steadfastness and warm-heartedness.
- He became the fame Santa Claus in America attributed to the Dutch immigrants to New Amsterdam, now New York. As we know he comes on 24 December, Christmas Eve.
- In Germany & Austria, he appears at night and fills children's shoes with goodies and sweets.
- However, on 5 December, Krampus, in devilish attire may appear to "bad" children.

President's 2022 Year-end Message

Dear Members and Friends of the Donauschwaben,

Let me start by wishing each and every one of you a Merry Christmas and a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year. Prosit 2023!

I'm delighted to say the Trenton Donauschwaben had a really good year. We came back strong from the difficulties brought about by the pandemic and are now enjoying dinners together again at the clubhouse. That's important because as a social organization that's how we survive and thrive. It feels good to be back!

It goes without saying that the biggest event of the past year was our mighty "Trenton Treffen". What a memorable experience it was for our club; our partner clubs the UGH, the Philly Donau and the German American Society and the roughly 2000 attendees from across the USA and Canada who passed through the gates of that three day festival. For many it was a once in a lifetime opportunity to see and be involved with the North American Donauschwaben community at its finest. Amazing! Be sure to check out our last newsletter which covers the event in detail.

Nothing happens without volunteers of course and it's been our youngest generation that has helped lead the way, playing key roles at the Treffen and at every monthly dinner and club event over the past year. They are part of a multi-generational group of selfless individuals who donate their time, talents and very often their treasure to make it happen. They are simply remarkable and I can't thank them enough.

As you well know, we continue to connect electronically through various social media at least once every week through our wonderful eNews, fascinating Facebook page, full featured website and our fine quarterly newsletter too. On the more practical side, the club undertook major fire safety upgrades and a whole raft of building related improvements too. Offsetting the cost of these undertakings have been generous donations from numerous members for which we are most grateful. Thank you!

Before I close, let's take a moment to remember all of our dearly departed members and friends as well as those who are suffering from illness or injury. God bless them all.

Once again, best wishes for the holidays and see you soon at the Donauschwaben! Frohe Weihnachten und Prosit Neujahr.

Respectfully, Joseph Brandecker, President

Congrats Liz

The New Jersey Business & Industry Assn. in November 2022, presented our member Liz Tindall, Retired, Prior Owner/Consultant, Liz Tindall & Associates, with the "The ELC Award for Excellence"

Liz received her Bachelor's Degree in Business from Rider University in 1977, following a year studying abroad at the University of Graz in Austria. Liz is the former Vice President of the MIDJersey Chamber of Commerce, a position she has held for thirteen years before retiring this position the end of July 2014 to start her own part-time consulting Liz Tindall & Associates, LLC. In her role at the Chamber, Liz was in charge of the day-to-day operations. Prior to that, Liz was in the banking industry for more than twenty-three years, with FleetBoston (formerly Summit Bank and United Jersey Bank), and ended her career there as Assistant Director of Government Banking and Affairs.

Kudos from the club members.

German Fact of the Week

Gummy Bears are a German Invention

Hans Riegel of Bonn, Germany created his own sweets company in 1920. He was fed up with his unrewarding career as a confectionary worker. He started off making candies that were hard and colorless and his wife was his delivery person.

Donauschwaben History & Culture

Naming Traditions Across Multiple Cultures

By David A. Fryxell

Hungarian

As with many immigrants, those from Hungary often changed their own names to be more American: Anglicizing the spelling, choosing an English equivalent or picking a new name entirely. Uncle John might've been János in the old country; Great-grandma Elizabeth, Erzébet. Hungarians usually have just one given name, but be aware that they commonly put their family names before their given names, the reverse of most Western cultures. So, for example, Szabó Mihály would be the Hungarian equivalent of Michael (Mihály) Taylor (Szabó, Hungarian for tailor).

Women often won't appear in records by their own name, but by adding the suffix -né to the husband's. For example, Great-grandma might show up as Kovács Mátyásné (equivalent to Mrs. Mátyás Kovács) instead of Anna Kovács. You can learn more about Hungarian names here.

German and Dutch

Families in the Netherlands might follow this pattern:
 the first son was named after the paternal grandfather
 the second son, after the maternal grandfather the first daughter, after the maternal grandmother
 the second daughter, after the paternal grandmother

Given the prevalence of infant mortality, these four names—recycled as necessary—were often enough. In a family with all daughters, a third child might receive a feminized version of a grandfather's name, such as Wilhemina or Hendrika.

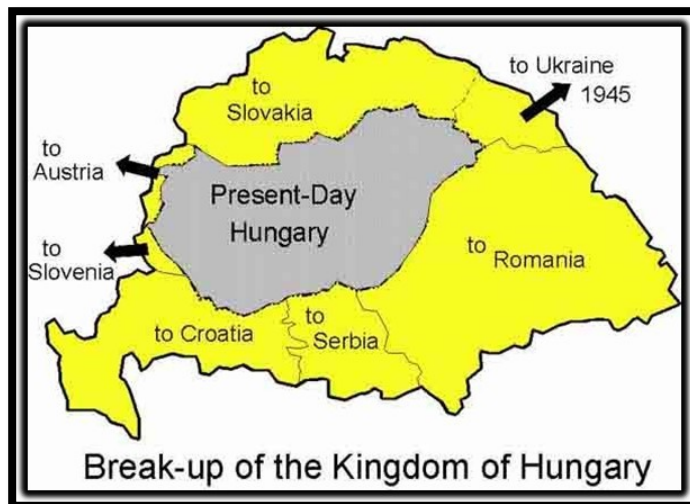

Parents in northwestern Germany, including East Friesland and adjacent areas, often followed this Dutch system, too. So did the Palatines who migrated to New York state in the early 1700s, because they mingled with earlier Dutch settlers.

But, according to German-genealogy researcher Arta F. Johnson, claims that most Germans adhered to this or any other naming scheme are unfounded. Most later German immigrants to America, Johnson points out, came from areas farther south, where no naming pattern was used. "Parents named the kids what they wanted to," according to Johnson, "and chose a (baptismal) sponsor who usually had the same name, and up to five more sponsors who did not."

German parents also seemed fond of naming offspring after themselves. But Johnson cautions that this is difficult to document because of the small pool of German given names: Was little Jacob named after his father or after his uncle Jacob? Or his grandfather Jacob? In German settlements in Pennsylvania, some experts have identified three different naming patterns. One follows the British scheme for the first three sons and daughters, switching to great-grandparents for the fourth through seventh of each gender (with precedence to the paternal side throughout, starting with the father's paternal grandfather). A second pattern is the same for boys, but switches precedence for daughters, naming number four after the mother's paternal grandmother. A third pattern inserts the parents' eldest siblings in position three, before the parents themselves. Both Dutch and German families typically gave children two Christian names—Maria Wilhelmina, for example. This may have been to keep a favorite name in the family. All the sons, for instance, might be named Johann plus a second name. In daily life the child was usually called by the second name, though sometimes Dutch parents might choose a third name for everyday use.

CONDOLENCES:

Maria Ria Hepp passed away peacefully on December 20th 2022. She was 90 years old. Born in Palanka, Yugoslavia in 1932, Ria and her family fled to Austria during World War II. She developed her outstanding artistic abilities while attending the Art Academy of Vienna. Ria came to the United States in 1957 to work in textile design. She rose to the top of her field with her designs on wallpaper, towels and tapestries. Her talent as an independent agent in textile design, landed her contracts with prestigious company of Florence, NJ., s, such as, Schumacher and Thuibolt in New York. Ria also used her talent to create professional quality sketches and paintings of family members which she generously gave away to relatives. Sometimes, this generosity included inviting relatives to see the sights in New York City with her. In her younger days, Ria loved to play tennis and relished in the competition of tournaments in Boca Raton and in the Bahamas. More recently, the same competitive spirit enabled her to take on friends in her senior community in chess competitions and countless games of Dominos. Ria's two adopted dogs, "Fifi", a dignified white Poodle, and, in turn, "Pixie", a loveable tan and white, Chihuahua mix, were very special and dear to her. The dogs accompanied her on walks and in running errands in the car. A longtime member of the Trenton Donauschwaben Club, Ria rarely missed an opportunity to support the organization by being part of its many events. She was predeceased by her parents, Stefan and Tereska Hepp of Vienna, and her brother, Hans Hepp, also of Vienna, Austria. She is survived by a sister, Terry Pederson of Denmark, and two nephews, Hans Hepp, Jr. and Michael Hepp of Vienna. Ria will be missed by her cousins in this area, namely, Alexander Hepp, Wilhelm Hepp and Marlana Bohn Novosel, second cousins, Mark Novosel and Elizabeth Tindall, and many friends in her senior community. Funeral services will be held privately for the family. Arrangements were under the care of Knott's Colonial Funeral Home 2946 South Broad Street Hamilton, NJ 08610. Condolences for the family can be left at www.knottscolonialfuneralhome.com.

Vehicle Winter Weather Tips

Protect your car during the cold months

Cold temperatures make it difficult for engines to work properly, snow limits tire traction and salt causes rust and gravel pits on the exterior paint.

WINTER AUTO TIPS

Winter is coming, so make sure your car is Winterized and ready to go during this cold season. Here are a couple of tips:

- Make sure your tires have the correct tire pressure
- Make sure your tires have good tread
- Check your battery. Clean battery terminals. Replace battery if over several years old
- Make sure your spare tire is in good condition
- Install new wiper blades
- Add some fuel stabilizer to your gas tank, especially if your car is going to sit for a period of time in the cold
- Keep gas tank at least 1/2 full in Winter
- Make sure you have a window scraper and it is in good shape
- Top off your windshield wiper fluid
- Check your radiator anti-freeze for level and concentration. Change if updated.
- Carry a blanket, gloves and hat
- Carry can of “kitty litter” in your trunk. Kitty litter comes in handy for traction when stuck in snow or on ice
- Clean off snow & ice before driving
- Lubricate window tracks and door locks
- Carry a flashlight and plug-in cell phone charger for emergencies
- Carry battery jumper cables
- Pack a small foldable shovel

From All of Us to All Of You, Enjoy the Holidays—Prost!
