

🌀 our computational architecture starting with the data we add new functionality to machines. Then, when we use [CLASSIFIED] instead of [cloaked], we are able to code in [Unreleased Intel] unlocking the ability to code energy. The technology scale across all systems from particles to Astrophysics—the field underpinning cell phone towers. Providing a path for greater understanding and precision in our technology that manipulates electromagnetic fields.

The first phase into a Tier 1 civilization is not like flipping an on off switch. There are many different adjustments along the way that need to be made in order to master energy. As each system cannot be converted over immediately, we must deploy the Planetary update in order of operations. Meaning collectively, we will go system by system and perform the release in order as to keep all systems within and outside our atmosphere online.

There's a Mathematical Chemist that created Periodic Table of Prime Numbers that can be used to help us. He's asked me not to name him. I won't. For whatever reason he didn't want to be seen by the public. He gave me clues to help me on my journey. A list of 51 lessons in mathematics, a copy of some chemist puzzles and how to decode them. I found it all quite fun and he gave me the final piece to unlock a cryptographic puzzle I had been working on. When I converted the cryptography, geometries appeared in the numbers. Numbers that match Biology.

I will be teaching a course called Math is Magic that teaches how to code with physics. The course will touch various topics including Neuroscience, Physics, and Quantum Biology. With a goal of being able to cascade the information to an elementary level.

Implementation

As we are pioneering the emerging field of Planetary systems, I will be leading the Planetary Update. My background is in Product Management, Information Security, and Neuroscience. The roles I will take on are as follows.

- Planetary Information Security Officer
- Neuroscientist of Information Physics
- Planetary Product Manager

The name I will operate under is Janus; the God of Transitions seems appropriate for this work and is the God January is named after.

I will post updates on the project as well as tasks in the Planetary Backlog located at Infoton.ai.

JANUS