Thousands of buttons, both for collecting or for crafting, will be displayed and for sale. This event will enhance a visit to the Warther Museum (paid admission) and to the “Button House,” which displays the button collection of Frieda Warther. Buttons arranged in geometric patterns on huge panels line the interior of the button house and showcase the official international hobby that has existed in the United States since 1938. In addition to enjoying the carvings of her husband, Ernest Warther, visitors can marvel at the wonderful variety of buttons that have been made to fasten and adorn our clothing.

At the button sale, visitors can find souvenirs that will be a reminder of the rich history of this small cultural artifact. Collectors can add to their existing collection. Crafters will find inspiration for projects. Those who want to know more about the hobby of button collecting will find information on how to begin.

Plan now to visit the Warther Museum and the Summer Button Sale on July 11, 2026. For more information on the Buckeye State Button Society, visit www.ohiobuttons.org.
