

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE
COMMUNITY WELLBEING HUB

We're thrilled to announce that the Buckinghamshire Community Wellbeing Hub has been named Health Creating Community Space or Place of the Year at the 2025 Excellence in Health Creation Awards!

These prestigious awards celebrate the people and projects transforming health and wellbeing across the UK. The Hub was recognised as a shining example of health creation in action—thanks to its co-designed approach with partners, strengths-based ethos, and commitment to listening and responding to local needs.

Launched in June 2023, the Buckinghamshire Community Wellbeing (BCW) Hub is a joint initiative between the Buckinghamshire Health and Social Care Academy and Buckinghamshire New University. Its mission is to improve the health and wellbeing of local residents by providing inclusive, co-designed spaces for health, wellbeing, and education.

In November 2024, the Hub became an independent charity, continuing to receive strong support from the Academy, the University, and a wide network of partners across health, social care, and the voluntary and community sector.

The Hub's core objectives include:

- Co-designing collaborative spaces for health and social care professionals and Voluntary, Community and Social Enterprise (VCSE) providers to learn and work together.
- Creating welcoming, accessible environments where health and wellbeing services are co-located to better serve residents.
- Offering meaningful opportunities for local students to build skills and gain experience through volunteering, placements, job shadowing, and training.

With nearly 3,000 residents regularly accessing support—and 96% reporting improved wellbeing—the Hub is a powerful testament to what can be achieved through collaboration, innovation, and community-led design.
