

Privacy Policy

Business: Vankirk Home Upgrades

Effective Date: August 1, 2026

1. Introduction

This Privacy Policy explains how Vankirk Home Upgrades (“we,” “us,” or “our”) collects, uses, stores, and shares information when you visit or use our website at [Website URL], contact us, or engage with our services.

We aim to handle personal information responsibly and to explain our practices in clear, practical terms. By using our website or providing information to us, you acknowledge the practices described in this Privacy Policy.

2. Information We Collect

We may collect information you provide directly, such as your name, email address, telephone number, business details, messages, consultation requests, and any other information you choose to include when you contact us or use our services.

We may also collect information automatically when you visit our website. This may include your IP address, browser type, device information, general location, pages viewed, links clicked, referring website, and the date and time of your visit.

If you provide information about another person, you should do so only when you are permitted to share that information and, where appropriate, have informed that person about this Privacy Policy.

3. How We Use Information

We use information for purposes connected with operating and improving our business and website. These purposes may include responding to questions and requests, arranging and preparing for consultations, providing and supporting our services, processing transactions where applicable, personalizing communications, maintaining business records, understanding website use, and protecting our website and business from misuse.

Client information may be used to contact clients about their consultation and to send ideas and information about our services. We may also send service-related messages, such as appointment details, follow-ups, updates, or responses to an inquiry.

Where appropriate, we may use information to develop new services, improve our content, measure the effectiveness of communications, and meet applicable administrative, security, or record-keeping needs.

4. How We Contact Clients

We may contact clients by email, telephone, text message, or another method they provide or request. The type and frequency of communication may depend on the client's inquiry, consultation, service relationship, and communication preferences.

Clients may ask us to stop sending promotional or informational communications at any time by using the instructions in the message or by contacting us at [Contact Email]. Even after opting out of promotional messages, clients may continue to receive necessary service-related communications.

5. Sharing and Disclosure of Information

We may share information when reasonably necessary to operate our business and provide our services. This may include sharing information with service providers that help us with website hosting, communications, scheduling, payment processing, analytics, technology, or administrative support.

We may also disclose information to professional advisers, public authorities, or other parties when we believe disclosure is appropriate to respond to a lawful request, protect our rights or property, address security or safety concerns, investigate misuse, or support a business transaction such as a merger, sale, or reorganization.

We do not share personal information for purposes unrelated to our business activities unless described in this Privacy Policy, requested or authorized by you, or otherwise appropriate in the circumstances. Service providers and other recipients may handle information according to their own policies and arrangements with us.

6. Cookies and Analytics

Our website may use cookies and similar technologies to remember preferences, support website functionality, understand how visitors use the website, and improve our content and services. Cookies are small files or data elements stored on or associated with your device or browser.

We may use analytics tools provided by third parties to collect information about website traffic and usage patterns. These tools may use cookies or similar technologies. You can adjust your browser settings to refuse or limit cookies, although some website features may not function as intended.

7. Data Retention

We retain personal information for as long as reasonably necessary for the purposes described in this Privacy Policy, including to provide services, maintain business and transaction records, communicate with you, resolve questions, support legitimate business needs, and meet applicable record-keeping requirements. Retention periods may vary depending on the type of information and the reason it was collected.

8. Data Security

We use reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards designed to protect personal information from unauthorized access, loss, misuse, alteration, or disclosure. However, no website, storage system, or method of transmitting information can be guaranteed to be completely secure.

9. Your Rights and Choices

Depending on your circumstances and where you live, you may have choices or rights relating to your personal information. These may include the ability to request access to information we hold about you, ask us to correct inaccurate information, request deletion of information, object to or limit certain uses, withdraw consent where processing is based on consent, or opt out of promotional communications.

- Access and correction — You may contact us to ask what information we hold about you or to request a correction.
- Communication preferences — You may unsubscribe from promotional messages or update your preferred contact method.
- Cookies — You may manage cookies through your browser or device settings.

To make a request, contact us at vankirk.renovations@gmail.com . We may need to verify your request and may retain certain information when reasonably necessary for legitimate business, security, or record-keeping purposes.

10. Children's Privacy

Our website and services are intended for a general audience and are not directed specifically to children. We do not knowingly seek to collect personal information from children through the website. If you believe a child has provided personal information to us, please contact us at vankirk.renovations@gmail.com so we can review the information and take appropriate action.

11. Changes to This Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time to reflect changes to our services, website, information practices, or other business needs. When we make changes, we will update the Effective Date shown at the beginning of the policy. Your continued use of the website after an updated policy is posted means that you have an opportunity to review the revised policy.
