

Disclaimer

Please be aware that Tina Roessel's services are not a substitute for professional medical care by a qualified medical practitioner or other health care professional. Nor is it intended to replace formal diagnosis and treatment. Always check with your doctor if you have any concerns about your condition or treatment.

Counselling/coaching may give information or guidance that could bring about positive change and such information or guidance is given for the client to consider.

Although Tina Roessel will be supportive and as helpful as possible throughout the process, any resulting choices, outcomes and changes made by the client do remain the personal and legal responsibility of the client.

Improvement of the client's conditions and/or healing is not guaranteed.