

Corleone Family Seeks to Understand Governor Newsom and CA Democrat Money Laundering Operation

Mob observes, takes notes, and says California's political machine is the most efficient money laundering operation they've ever seen.

By Our Investigative Desk

SACRAMENTO, CA —

The Corleone crime family has sent representatives to Sacramento to observe how Governor Gavin Newsom and many leading Democratic politicians run their highly efficient money laundering operation, according to sources close to the family.

In a press conference, Michael (Mikey) Corleone II, the great grandson of Michael Corleone, stated, "The California political money laundering machine is much more efficient than anything we have come up with in decades of laundering money and we hope to apply their methodology with the goal of obtaining similar results."

He added, "Our operational effectiveness pales in comparison to what the California political machine is able to launder in both volume and efficiency."

Mikey Corleone II addresses the press in Sacramento, praising the California Democratic Party's "remarkable" money laundering operation.

A Master Class in Political Money Laundering

Initial observations of Corleone family members and operatives of the California Democratic Party's laundering operations left them in awe. They were particularly interested in how the money is run through ventures that produce little to no visible output or results.

"We could never get away with having no tangible output from our front businesses like they have here in California," noted one Corleone observer.

High-Speed Rail, Homeless Projects: Perfect Fronts for Laundering

The observers spent significant time reviewing contracts and financial documents related to the high speed rail and homeless projects. According to one family member, "The level of efficiency, the recycling of funds, and the complete lack of results is breathtaking."

High Speed Rail:
$Billions Spent. Still No Trains.

Taxpayer Money Recycled for Power

Another aspect that intrigued the Corleone family was how politicians cycle taxpayer money through a project and then redistribute it to organizations, companies, nonprofits, etc., that benefit them both personally and politically.

"They are quite literally using taxpayer money to strengthen to further their political ambitions and retain their absolute grip on power," lamented one Corleone Family observer.

Some of the money is also funneled to programs and nonprofits where the politicians have a personal stake (i.e. family members are employed there, etc.).

Media Control: No More Unexplained Corruptions

The Corleone Family is also hoping to learn how the Democratic Party has been able to control the mainstream media. Through financial means and intimidation, they plant stories and try to sway public sentiment, but the Governor and the Democratic Party have developed a sustainable system that allows them to completely control the narrative.

"When my grandfather killed Sollozzo and Captain McCluskey our best hope was to shift the focus from the killing to the corruption of the police captain," lamented Michael Corleone II. "I am astonished that the media remains silent on obvious corruption that is occurring in plain sight."

$14 Billion and Not a Thing to Show

The Corleone family was also stunned to learn that CA politicians were able to launder/spend $14 billion dollars of taxpayer money with very little to show for it, yet the media largely ignores this boondoggle.

"The best we could hope for was to plant some stories and shift the focus like when my grandfather and namesake killed Captain McCluskey and Sollozzo," He noted that the Democratic Party is able to control the complete narrative of the mainstream media.

The Offer They Couldn't Refuse

The Corleone family's main focus was on how the taxpayer money is run through a project and then redistributed to organizations, companies, nonprofits, etc., that then use that same money to promote these same political candidates and their causes through campaign donations.

In addition, some of the money is funneled to nonprofits and NGOs where the politicians have a personal stake (i.e. family members are employed there, etc.).

"When asked if his team had encountered any reluctance from the Governor, who is notoriously secretive about finances and uses non-disclosure agreements to protect his operations, Michael Corleone II simply replied, "We made him an offer he couldn't refuse."

"We're just following the California way. It's all about people, progress, and transparency."

— Gavin Newsom
(probably)

Same Players.
New Fronts.
Bigger Hauls.

Welcome to California.

INSIDE TODAY

- How to launder money (the California way) – Page 3
- High-Speed Rail: Where's the Train? – Page 4
- Homelessness: A $Billion Industry – Page 5
- Media's Silence on Corruption – Page 6
- Corleone Family: Next Steps – Page 7