From the Pastor's Desk:

The Father and his 2 sons. I've always said that it is very easy for us to place ourselves in the gospels and to be identified with the characters presented in them. Today we see a family situation and maybe one too familiar to us. The son who wants to go away, forgetting everything and everybody he is leaving behind. The son who stays but can not enjoy being at the father's side. Which one represents me? If we are honest with ourselves, we can easily answer that question. In any case, at any rate, neither position is good. The remaining issue is touching the bottom in both cases to find out how good, loving, and caring the father is. How he awaits for the son to come to him. Not only the one who went away but also for the one who stayed but seemed to be far away from the father. Don't forget how good and forgiving our Father in heaven is...always waiting for us to come home where we all belong.

El Padre y sus 2 hijos. Siempre he dicho que es muy fácil para nosotros vernos reflejados en los evangelios e identificarnos con los personajes representados en ellos. Hoy vemos una situación familiar muy conocida por nosotros. El hijo que se quiere ir lejos olvidando todo y a todos los que se quedan atrás. El hijo que se queda pero que no disfruta estar al lado de su Padre. Cual me representa a mí? Si somos honestos podemos responder la pregunta fácilmente. En cualesquiera de los situaciones ninguna posición es buena. Lo difícil en ambos casos es que llegan a tocar fondo para poder darse cuenta de cuán bueno, amoroso e indulgente es el padre. Cómo El padre espera a que regrese el hijo. No sólo al que se fue lejos, pero también al que se quedó y parece estar muy lejos del padre. No olvidemos lo bueno, amoroso y comprensivo que es nuestro Padre que esta en el cielo...siempre esperando que regresemos al hogar al que todos pertenecemos.
