Vita Sapien is an Australian registered charity with a unique and transformative approach to avoiding collapse.

Vita Sapien views the climate and ecological crisis through the lens of worldview, philosophy, ecological spirituality, belief, and a new nature-based religion.

Vita Sapien's mission is to shift the trajectory of our civilization away from the climate and ecological abyss and towards the Verdant Age, the potential future time when humans and the biosphere thrive in synergy deep into the Long Future.

Vita Sapien is framed with reference to Stoicism, the philosophy that formed the worldview of the educated class in Ancient Rome.

Vita Sapien offers a new Ecologically Sustainable Worldview that is grounded in the reality of today and the opportunity for the future: Vita Worldview.

Vita Sapien's two primary initiatives are Lifewise Philosophy and Vita Religion, and other initiatives are under development.

Vita Sapien believes that there are around 53 million people who would adopt Vita Worldview as their primary way of seeing the world. This represents about 8% of Western Adults, a powerful political and economic force for change.

Reaching out to the 53 million Latent Vitans is a communications challenge. Vita Sapien plans the first step in this journey is to establish an Operational Centre with a film and recording studio to produce a stream of content to spread worldwide through social and mass media.
