

MiHealth Device Information – 3 in One

3 powerful technologies come together in one powerful device,
MiHealth = PEMF, TENS, SCENAR, BIOFEEDBACK

PEMF - Pulse Electric Magnetic Field

- PEMF therapy utilises bursts of low-level electromagnetic radiation to heal damaged tissues and bone, to relieve injury-related pain, and even to stimulate organs.
- These pulses, at low frequencies, pass through the skin and penetrate deep into muscle, bones, tendons and even organs to activate the cell's energy pathways, provide electrons to the system, and provide information needed for the natural repair mechanisms.
- PEMF is catching on a non-invasive way to approach injuries, chronic pain, and even conditions like depression and diabetes.

TENS – Transcutaneous Electrical Nerve Stimulation (TENS or TNS)

- TENS uses electrical current produced by a device to stimulate the nerve for therapeutic purposes.
- TENS, by definition, covers the complete range of transcutaneously – applied currents entering the skin as used for nerve excitation, although, the term is often used with a more restrictive intent, namely to describe the kind of pulses produced by portable stimulators to treat pain.
- The unit is usually connected to the skin using two or more electrodes. A typical battery-operated tens unit is able to modulate pulse width, and intensity.

SCENAR – Self Controlled Energo-Neuro Adaptive Regulator

- SC – Self controlled. The SCENAR type device establishes a biofeedback connection with the body when in use, constantly changing and adapting the properties of the applied electric impulses, in response to the reactions it measures from the body.
- EN – Energo – Neuro. The effect of SCENAR is based on electric impulses of a specific shape; these shapes are patterned after the natural impulses of the human body.
- AR – Adaptive Regulator. The SCENAR device not only provides direct therapeutic effects but also activates the natural defenses of the body. By adjusting voltage potentials of the cells so they have the energy for their own innate healing capabilities.

How does this biofeedback work?

- It is applied to the surface of the skin, stimulating all parts of the skin. Skin develops from the same embryological layer as the nervous system. This allows for treatment of internal organs as the device stimulates reflexive zones on the surface of the skin. This is the same as reflexology.
- It works along acupuncture meridians and neurological zones,
- Can help to release regulative healing peptides for up to hours after treatment.
- Helps restore the ANS (Autonomic Nervous System) to homeostasis.
ANS helps to maintain homeostasis (internal stability and balance) through the coordination of various activities such as hormone secretion, circulation, respiration, digestion and excretion.
- Help eliminate repetitive patterns in the central nervous system.
- Works along the ascending pathways in the spinal cord to affect the cortex of the brain. This helps efferent (outward) pathways from the cortex to convey impulses, which affect a response in the organs associated with the reflex area on the skin.
- Helps re-establish normal membranous resonance.
- If helps to normalise adapted tissue polarities through molecular polarisation.

Other Points.

- The miHealth uses Frequency Modulation data transmission technology to provide corrective information to the body-field.
- The miHealth's electrical strength is 1 milliamp so you can consider it a microcurrent device.
- The miHealth can restore tissue polarity via molecular polarization.
