

Specialised Cancer Care for the Whole Circle of Care

Cancer treatment can have complex sensory, cognitive, emotional and psychological impacts -not only for the person diagnosed, but also for their carers, partners, children and families.

A GP or cancer care clinician referral is required to access this specialised multidisciplinary care pathway and to claim the applicable Medicare rebate under the Chronic Disease Management framework.

A Multidisciplinary Foundation

Advanced multidisciplinary scholarship across Cancer Sciences, Clinical Audiology and Education supports the delivery of comprehensive, evidence-informed care across the cancer care continuum.

This academic foundation, together with more than 20 years of counselling experience as an allied health practitioner, extensive experience working alongside Indigenous Australians, and my own lived experience as a cancer patient, informs a compassionate and person-centred approach to supporting patients, carers, partners, children and families.

I am qualified to provide professional counselling, psychosocial and educational support to people affected by cancer and their broader circle of care.

My approach is grounded in academic rigour, professional experience, cultural safety, empathy and respect, recognising that every person and family experiences cancer differently.

- Collaboration across cancer care: I welcome referrals and collaborative partnerships with local cancer care services, working together to help ensure every cancer patient can access the support they need - regardless of where they receive treatment.

Cancer affects the whole circle of care.
